Those Were The Days . . .

At 3:15, seniors, juniors, and sophomores, elated at the end of another day, pour out of every exit at FCHS. These students, in order to avoid the mad rush, hurry to their cars before the final bell rings.

Those were the days of pausing to reflect upon the joy life may bring.

Gathering for friendly conversation during lunch period, students discuss the exciting activities of the day.

Randy Carter and Kathy Flora find a quiet spot to take a break from a hectic school day.

WELCOME!

FCHS ENROLLMENT

SR. 380
JR. 450
SOPH. 520

Franklin County High School, one of the largest schools in its district, boasts an enrollment of thirteen hundred and fifty students. Even though large in number, a closeness is retained among faculty and students.

Students who are interested in a career immediately following high school enjoy and utilize the facilities of the modern vocational buildings.

Lasting friendships may develop through business acquaintances. Mr. Laury, manager of Leggett, gives Mike Law a few tips on the selling of footwear.

Through participation in extra-curricular activities such as Junior Achievement, Sheila Pagans and Kay Seagle build a friendship which will endure many years.

... Of Establishing Warm Friendships

After many long hours of hard work, the football team and coaches gain insight into each one's abilities. Coach Foutz explains a new field strategy to Raymond Keys, a half-back on the squad.

Faculty members enjoy at least one place of seclusion at FCHS — the teacher's lounge. Mr. Biddle and Mr. Thompson take full advantage of an opportunity to relax during their planning period.

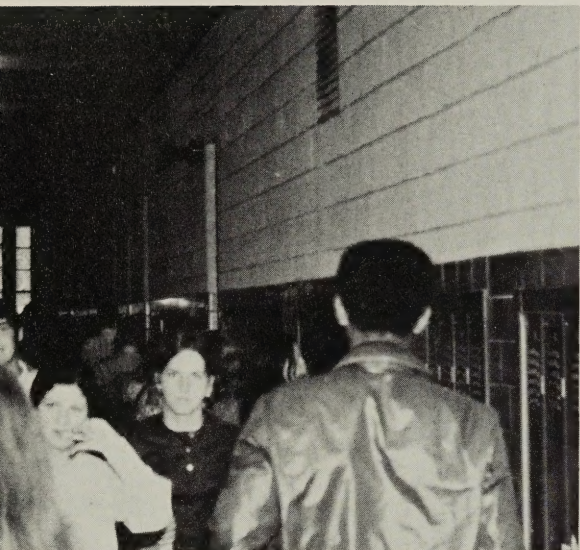

Each student leaves his mark somewhere at FCHS. For Sandra Dillon, Carolyn McEnheimer, and Faye Pugh, the flag pole serves the purpose.

Speech is one of the many classes at FCHS that encourages free expression. Mrs. Lovell and Ann Cundiff discuss the humorous pantomimes presented by fourth period class.

Senior, Pat Grantham exercises her right to get in front of underclassmen in the lunch line, while Ricky Smith dreams of the day he can obtain the senior privilege.

As the bell sounds ending class, the main hall becomes a scene of mass confusion as students hurry to their next class.

Wanda Love experiences intense anxiety as she inspects the dented fender of her father's car.

Ordering graduation announcements can become frustrating. Confusion is apparent as each senior decides on his order.

Pausing a moment to view pictures of senior Homecoming nominees, these students think of the future assembly with joy. It is not every day they are permitted to miss class.

. . . Of Experiencing Joy, Anxiety, and Confusion

With an expression of anxiety and concern, Lou Ann Ross receives an English test paper.

To insure quiet halls during lunch periods, monitors are posted throughout the building. Debbie Berger stops Robbie Saul to check his pass.

A look of intense joy appears on her face as Linda Brooks reads of her acceptance to Radford College.

... Of Displaying Vibrant Enthusiasm

Majorettes spend many hours planning and perfecting routines for the enjoyment of spectators at athletic events. Senior majorette, Sue Cook, smiles vibrantly as she performs during half-time.

Speech class provides an excellent outlet for the enthusiasm of FCHS students. Jack Holt delights his classmates with his pantomime of a baby who has just discovered his toes.

"What do you mean you don't have a hall pass, Robin Turner?" remarks Jimmy Hodges.

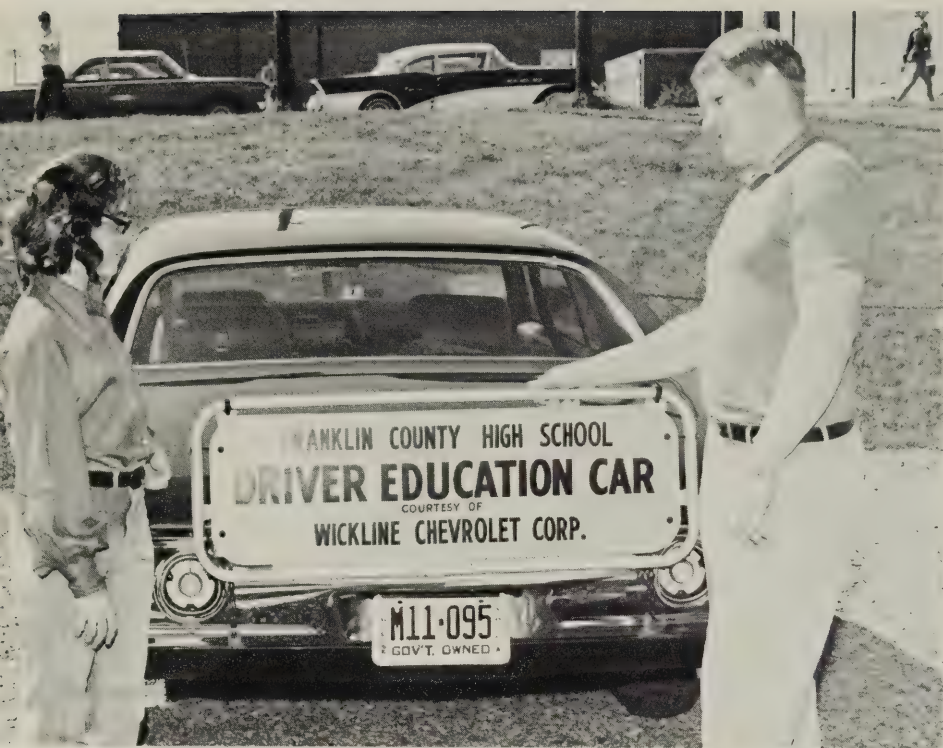

Vibrant and vivacious junior varsity cheerleaders lead the student body in a rousing cheer during the first pep rally of the 1971 football season.

Members of the FCHS varsity football team show vibrant enthusiasm and generate school spirit among the student body.

To obtain one's driving permit is indeed a special moment in the life of a young person. FCHS features a behind the wheel driver education course. Instructor Richard Foutz points out the main parts of a vehicle to Betty Hall during her first lesson.

Ann Harrison chooses the stereo-tape player-record player combination as her grand prize in the magazine sales campaign.

Everyone cannot win, but you will certainly agree there are no losers in the ten semi-finalists representing the Class of '73 on the Homecoming Court. Chosen by the Juniors as the ten prettiest girls in their class are Carolyn Bernard, Barbara Board, Debra Flora, Sue Hall, Sheryl Horton, Brenda Mattox, Diane McGuire, Shelia Pagans, Cathy Reece, and Robin Turner.

... Of Sharing Special Moments

Dancing to the vibrating rhythm of the Blue Chords, Junior and Senior couples experience an unforgettable evening.

By dancing to every song, all couples show their appreciation of the music provided by the Red, White, and Blue on the special night of the Homecoming dance.

Before a winning touchdown, Coach Bennington and Coach Ligon offer advice and encouragement to a determined varsity player.

... Of Planning For The Future

Many hours of serious thought are required before a future vocation can be selected. Dorothy Wright explores the career possibilities that are listed in the Occupational Outlook Handbook.

Mr. Biddle's fifth period class concentrates on the important task of filling out their schedule cards accurately and neatly.

Students interested in higher education must take the PSAT test in December. Pat Delong completes the application for this important test.

Gaining experience that will enable her to improve her secretarial skills, Norma Turner prepares the spelling list for F.B.L.A. members.

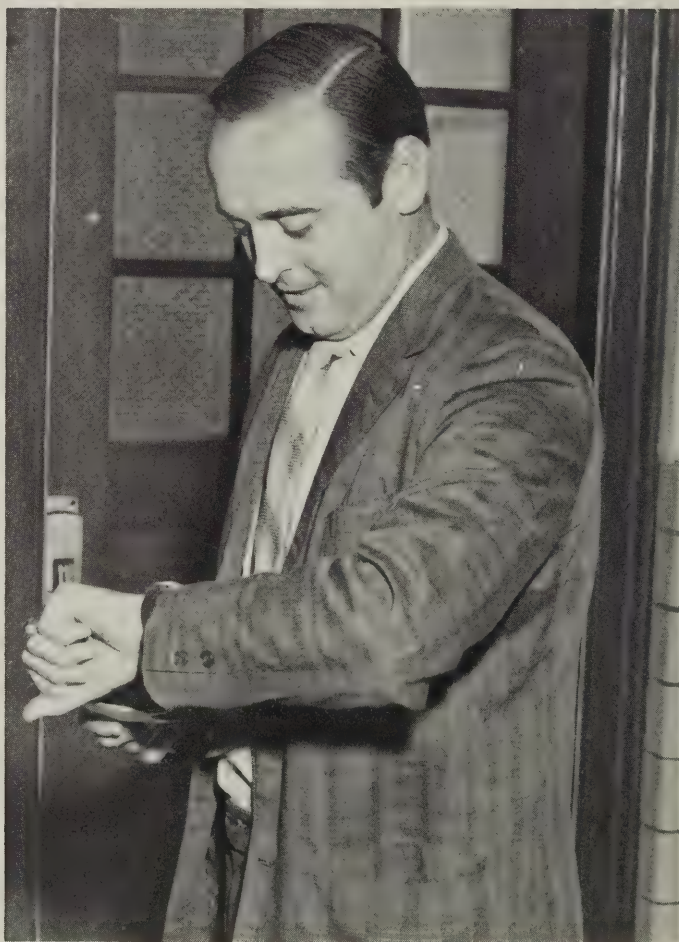

Realizing that he must soon make a decision about which courses he will take next year, Joey Walters examines a power mechanics textbook and a chemistry textbook to determine which class will be his choice.

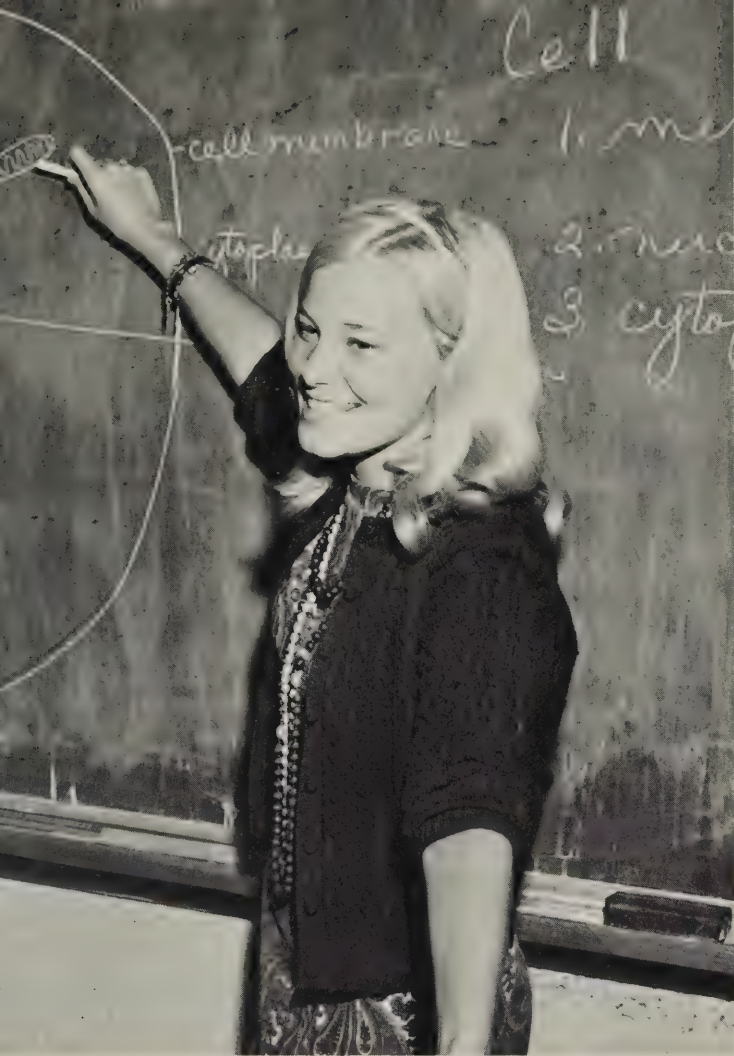

Connie Haynes, a college-bound senior, selects a college catalogue from the numerous volumes in the guidance office.

EDUCATION

Faced with the tedious task of operating an educational system smoothly and efficiently, the faculty and administration of Franklin County High School arose as competent leaders with a ready solution to every problem.

The instillation of knowledge into the students' minds was not sufficient. Each member of the faculty was well qualified in persuading students to develop their talents and abilities, in teaching them to profit from new ideas, and in helping the young students to realize the significance of each new opportunity.

Students found that words were inadequate to express their appreciation for the deep devotion shown to each student by the educators. Instead, the young people of FCHS gave their fullest admiration and respect to those who had so unselfishly given of themselves so that each person might stand individually and independently. Yes, those were the days when the students worked with the faculty and administration in acquiring a new and prosperous education for the near future.

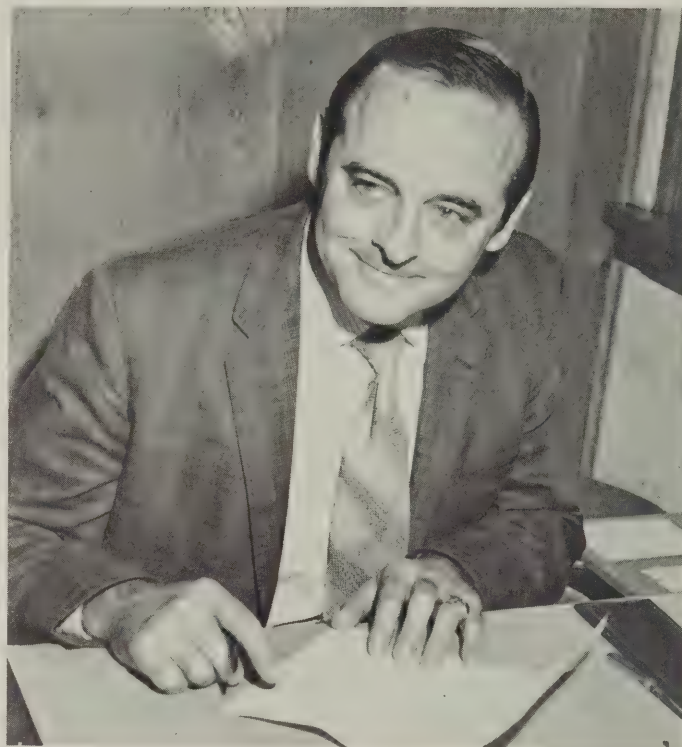

Principal, Superintendent, And Supervisors

In his role as principal of Franklin County High School, Mr. Wesley W. Naff worked hard to continue the instructional plan as an up-to-date program to satisfy the many necessities of the students. He was always willing to assist students in any problem they might have encountered and to converse with the students on any convenient occasion. Mr. Naff received his B.S. from V.P.I. and S.U. and his M.Ed. from Radford College.

Mr. C. I. Dillon, as superintendent of schools, strived to better the schooling system of the county. He held the scholarly background that supplied the foundation for his role. Mr. Dillon received his B.A. degree from the University of Richmond, his M.Ed. from V.P.I. and S.U. and has done post-graduate work at the University of Virginia.

Mr. Dillon and Mr. Naff kept Franklin County High School and the public school system of Franklin County operating smoothly. A pleasant environment existed as students and faculty work with the administrators.

The supervisors included Mr. T. A. Hartley, Mr. Bruce Kent, and Mr. Cecil Doss. Mr. Hartley, director of instruction, received his B.S. degree from Roanoke College and a M.Ed. degree from the University of Virginia. Mr. Kent, general supervisor, received his B.S. and M.Ed. degrees from the College of William and Mary. Mr. Doss, supervisor of operational and auxiliary services, earned his B.A. degree at the College of William and Mary.

Overcoming Many Obstacles, The Office

As assistant principals, Donald K. Ranson and John L. Smith exerted great effort in bringing about a feeling of unity and purpose among the students of FCHS. Although they overcame obstacles with procured exactness, their responsibilities seemed endless.

Mr. Ranson achieved a B.S. degree from West Virginia Wesleyan. Pursuing his education further, he received his M.S. degree from Radford College. Mr. Smith assumed the combined duties of assistant principal and director of student activities. His educational background included an A.A. degree acquired at Ferrum College, a B.S. degree from V.P.I. and S.U., and a M.Ed. degree from Radford College. Facing whatever situations that might arise, Mr. Ranson and Mr. Smith handled them efficiently and effectively.

Under the supervision of Mr. W. R. Jamison, the Vocational Department continued to progress. Mr. Jamison's first-rate advice was always reliable as he worked to expand and to improve the vocational program for the students of Franklin County. He received a B.A. degree from Lynchburg College.

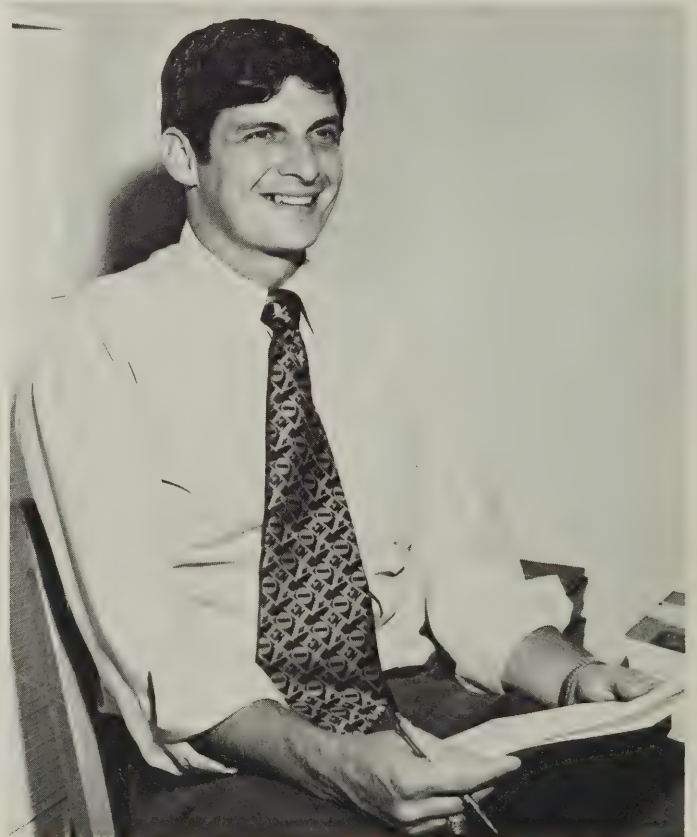

Handling the numerous duties of the administrative office were the secretaries, Mrs. Adkins, Mrs. Gann, and Mrs. Fisher. Issuing tardy slips, typing letters, and maintaining files were among the many tasks taken care of daily. In addition to the secretaries, Mrs. Brown, as bookkeeper, managed all financial details of the school.

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Featherston

B.S.; Virginia Commonwealth University; Guidance Counselor; Pep Club Sponsor

Proving to be an invaluable asset, the guidance department of Franklin County High School was always willing to advise and direct students. Three devoted counselors offered meaningful advice to any student who faced an "insurmountable" problem. Each counselor helped students choose a curriculum and inspired them to set high goals and to strive to attain them. Preparing character references, college transcripts, and job recommendations as well as executing achievement tests were among the numerous tasks tackled by the counselors.

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Featherston, newest member of the department, guided perplexed sophomores and aided them in becoming adjusted amid an exciting and stimulating environment. As junior counselor, Mrs. Naomi Berger was confronted with the task of consulting each junior and offering suggestions for senior courses. Miss Patsy Jefferson, guidance director, assisted many seniors, anticipating graduation, in choosing a college and a career in which their full potential would be best developed. School nurse, Mrs. Muriel Dillon offered words of comfort and encouragement as she administered to all who became ill or were injured at school.

With a dual performance of sound thinking and direction, the guidance department proved to be indispensable. The school nurse and counselors aptly handled each problem with confidence and reassurance. These dedicated faculty members made FCHS a much more pleasant school.

Are Teeming With Literary Works

Mrs. Cooper, library clerk, assists students in checking out books and other reference materials before and after school each day.

As one of the best equipped departments of the school, the library served a dual purpose for students and teachers alike. It provided students with a quiet, comfortable place to study and encyclopedias and other reference sources with which to complete research projects. Also, the library was well stocked with over ten thousand books, sixty-two different magazines, and numerous newspapers to furnish pleasure reading which helped students and teachers increase their background of knowledge and widen their outlook.

Students and teachers had access to the library from 8:00 in the morning until 4:00 in the afternoon. Students could also enjoy the library facilities during their study hall and between classes.

Films, slides, and recordings were used by teachers to improve their instructional program. During the year many teachers brought their classes to the library to work on research papers and to learn about the organization of the library.

Members of the Library Club assisted in the library during their study halls to locate materials, shelf books, and work at the charging desk. These students worked under the supervision of two full-time librarians and a library clerk.

Mrs. Mary Layman

Since communication is an essential part of our everyday lives, the primary function of the English Department was to educate students in the use of their own language in order to communicate with others. Through essays, interpretative readings, public speaking, story telling, pantomiming, and debating, horizons were broadened and a world full of exciting new concepts was opened.

For sophomores, days were filled with learning the importance of correct usage of basic grammar and becoming familiar with the parts of speech. They also enjoyed the wide range of short stories and improved their writing skills. Some junior classes encountered the possibilities of American literature while other classes learned to appreciate the newspaper. At the same time, seniors discovered a new world of speeches and themes along with Shakespeare's Macbeth and Chaucer's Canterbury Tales.

Students who took advantage of the many opportunities offered by the English Department at FCHS found that they were soon able to express themselves intelligently and independently.

Learning and understanding the language and customs of a country different from ours proved to be a very interesting and enjoyable experience for the students who were enrolled in the foreign language classes. Under the skillful leadership of teachers who imparted a creditable knowledge and background of the faraway lands, students studied not only of the tongue of these people but also of their traditions and belief.

Latin students studied myths, Roman history, and many interesting characters such as Caesar, Cicero, and Pompey. They found the language to be very much alive in our own civilization as their study progressed from basic foundations to Latin literature. Because of their study of Latin, many students derived a much better background in English.

French offered the students a very colorful and interesting class even though it proved difficult. Students struggled through a mangle of words and progressed as they worked with extended verb and grammar study. An understanding of the geography, life, and history were also impressed upon each French student.

A new world of colorful, intriguing people was opened to Spanish students as they were introduced to this romantic language. Not only were they taught vocabulary and grammar, but they also broadened their understanding of their Latin American neighbors. Students soon reached a point of proficiency in comprehending the many aspects of Spanish.

Latin students expand their concepts of the language by reviewing Mrs. Thurman's informative bulletin board.

Students Learn To Relate The Past With The Present By Studying Old Worlds

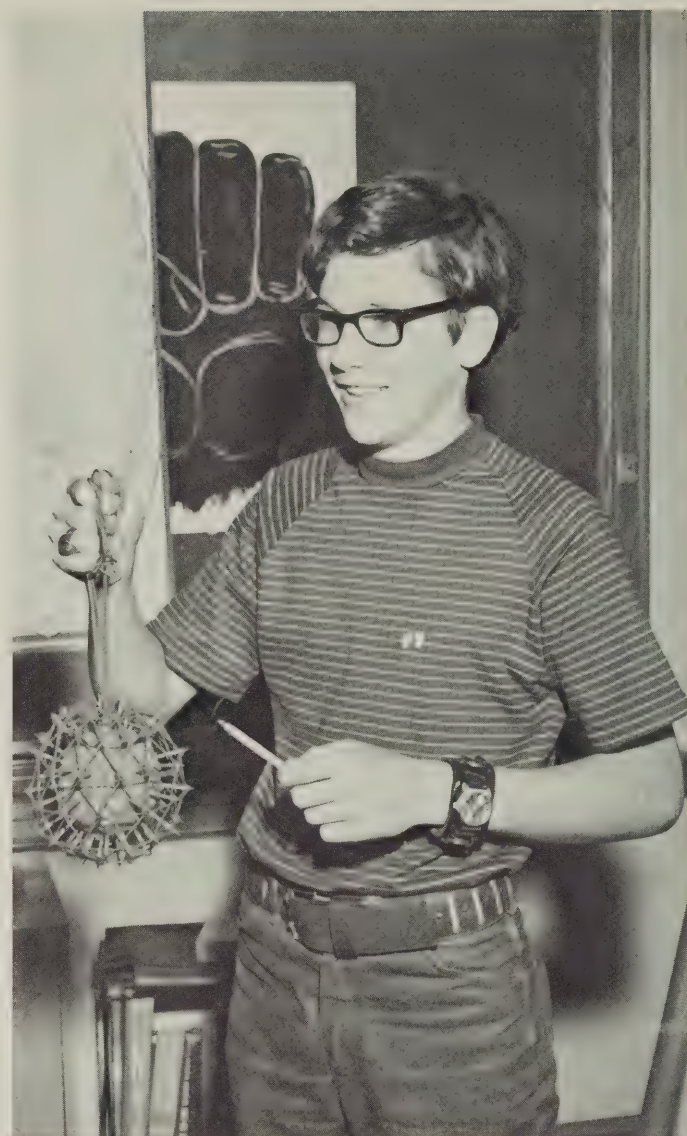

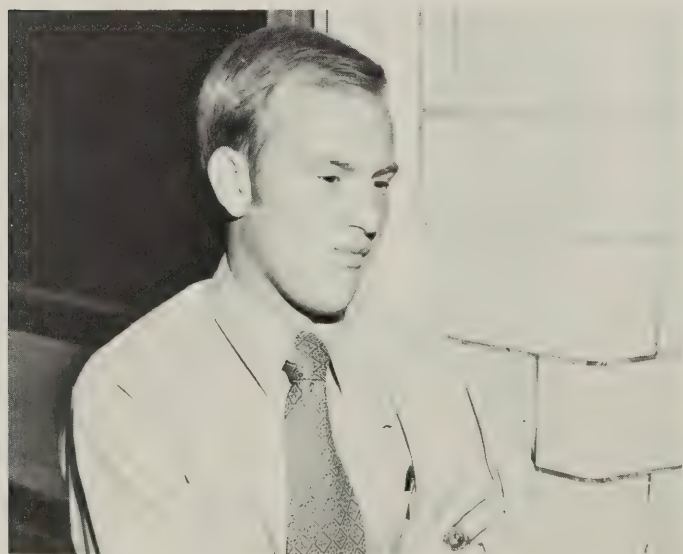

A program of studies including world history, U. S. history, world geography, Virginia and U. S. government, and economics were offered to the students of FCHS. World history included a survey of Western Civilization from early man to the present time while U. S. history traced the development of the United States and prepared students to meet the upheavals of today and tomorrow. World geography gave students a better understanding of the world in which we live.

Virginia and U. S. government emphasized the rights, duties, and responsibilities of the individual in a democracy. A clearer understanding of the organization of government was sought as present day problems and controversial issues were examined. The complexities involved in the management of a country's material resources to satisfy basic necessities was a major point brought to light in the study of economics.

Taken as a whole, the Social Studies Department provided instruction that took into consideration every facet of the world's background thus making the citizens of tomorrow proud of their country and its heritage.

This subject included an understanding of lines, angles, and plane figures along with their involvement with one another. Algebra II was a realm of mathematics which consisted of solutions to linear and quadratic equations in connection with their graphs and systems.

Math IV involved a study of numerous intricate trigonometric function applications, their values, identities, and equations. Analytic geometry students explored the straight line, in addition to the general quadratic equation. A course in consumer mathematics was offered to the many students of FCHS who were interested in the application of mathematical processes to daily living.

Inspired by excellent scientific study, students in the Science Department continued to make strides in understanding the complicated environment of man. Students found that their efforts brought preparation for the future as they gained an understanding of the part that science plays in our modern world. Many young people were encouraged to seek careers in the lucrative field of scientific endeavor and to gain an understanding of the many fields open to them through science.

Biology included the study of life from the single cell to the most complex organism. The biological functions and demands of plants and animals were further explained as laboratory exercises were completed. Through class discussions, lectures, and individual experimentation, chemistry students became aware of chemical formulas, equations, atomic structures and moles.

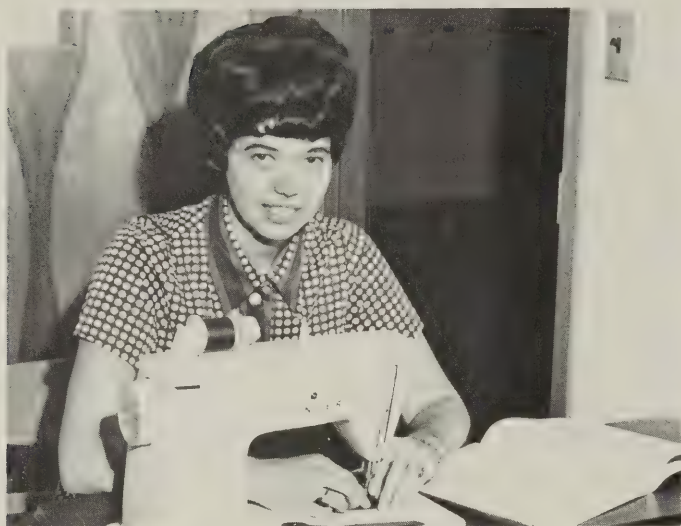

Physics offered to seniors, who desired more knowledge of science in preparing for college, a wide field to explore the laws of motion, energy, and electricity. Through active participation in laboratory activities, students were encouraged to do independent thinking and to develop a scientific attitude. Challenged to prove their scientific knowledge, many students spent long hours of work preparing entries for the local science fair.

In occupational sewing class, Kay Ellis puts the finishing touches on a garment she has made.

A major goal of the Home Economics Department was to teach girls to work independently toward the solution of personal and family problems and to instruct them in the living patterns of today and tomorrow. As a preparation for successful future homemakers, students learned about home and family business management, the selection of clothing, the art of cooking, and the skills of sewing. Through demonstrations, discussions, and class studies, girls also learned about food preservation, child care, and personal and social development. Students enjoyed home economics and with capable instruction and the development of natural talents, each girl prepared to become a successful wife and mother.

Classes in occupational clothing and occupational foods provided students with knowledge that could be utilized in a supervised employment situation. Occupational clothing offered a program of skills necessary for success in the commercial sewing trades while occupational foods included an in-depth study of the preparation and service of foods.

One of the many fine projects sponsored by the homemaking classes of FCHS involved the gaining of experience with children and family planning. The students directed Snoopy's Play School, a project dealing with pre-school children.

Typing students found that much practice was necessary in order to achieve the high degree of speed and accuracy needed in office occupations. An understanding of the American business system was stressed in general business while business law dealt primarily with the legal aspects of the business world.

A course in general recordkeeping was offered to aid interested students in keeping personal records. At the same time, clerical accounting students gained experience in maintaining accurate business records and studied various aspects of data processing.

Stenography and clerk typist classes provided an in-depth study of the skills and knowledge necessary for successful employment in these areas. Senior business students who wanted to polish their business skills were allowed to work part-time in a local office through the cooperative office education program.

Distributive Education Provides

Distributive Education classes trained the students of Franklin County High School for employment in a distributive occupation. Interested students were able to secure a job in retail, wholesale, or any type of service establishment. For those who sought full time employment, the D. E. program provided a background of experience that would help to establish their plans. Also, students not seeking post-high school training found that participation in the program helped them to enter the field of marketing with a certain measure of skill.

First year students found that class discussions were focused on such topics as advertising, salesmanship, job interviews, merchandising, and store layouts. Second year students were given an opportunity to prove that they had really learned something about courtesy, salesmanship, and dependability as they applied their knowledge in a supervised job situation. Advice in selection and good public relations provided evidence of the competence of each student.

D. E. students participated in many activities sponsored by our school in addition to being members of the Distributive Education Clubs of America. This school related clubs was designed to develop future leaders for marketing and distribution.

Vocational agriculture classes offered students a wide variety of training. Emphasis was given in the preparation for careers in production agriculture as a farmer, forestry and conservation, agriculture businesses in supplying and servicing for the farmer, and the marketing of agricultural products.

Students became better acquainted with the work in agriculture as they participated in classroom training and supervised work programs. During laboratory time, forestry and conservation students developed skills necessary for occupations in forestry and wildlife conservation, in outdoor recreation, and in soil and water conservation. Classroom instruction in mechanics and putting this to use in the school shop helped the student to acquire mechanical skills. Leadership training was given each student, and the FFA organization offered them an opportunity to practice the proper procedures.

The knowledge of agricultural science, the mechanical skills, and leadership training acquired in vocational agriculture classes was used by students as aids in the preparation for non-agricultural related careers as well as those in the industry of agriculture.

Cosmetology provided an opportunity for ambitious students to become licensed beauticians. In order to qualify for this permit, however, students must be enrolled in the course three years, during which time they received instruction three hours daily. This vocational program consisted of the proper techniques for manicuring, shampooing, rinsing, scalp treatments, hair styling, hair cutting, and permanent waving. Instruction in skin care, make-up, and salon management was also given.

Power mechanics provided a two year study of the maintenance and repair of transmissions and the electrical and hydraulic principles. Training in the systems of internal combustion engines was also included in the course.

The students found that activities in cosmetology and power mechanics were both interesting and informative. Participation in these two vocations aided students in developing purposeful skills for their future use.

Courses In Electricity And

Electricity was a three-hour course which offered numerous job opportunities for students in tomorrow's world. This vocation consisted of the principles involved in home wiring and electrical appliances. Training in the maintenance and repair of other electrical units was also given.

In the endeavor of masonry, students developed skills which prepared them for an occupation in the field of building trades. Using the trowel in brick laying, the methods of concrete finishing, mortar and metal ties, different types of walls, and the construction of chimneys and fireplaces were among the numerous techniques acquired by students in the vocation of masonry.

Classroom instruction for electricity and masonry consisted of basic mathematics, reading blueprints, and working with layouts. With efficient direction from qualified instructors, students worked toward achieving their perspective goals in the fields of electricity and masonry.

Fun, Sports, And Sportsmanship Fill Gym Classes For Both Boys And Girls

Days of health and physical education were filled with discussions concerning health principles and safe driving and with exciting games of basketball, football, warball, or volleyball. Each instructor sought daily to impress upon each student the important fact that each person has a responsibility to develop himself into a well-rounded and poised individual, strong in both mind and body.

To develop physically, students participated in calisthenics and a well-planned program of individual and team sports. The students also progressed in the development of the mind through courses in first-aid and driver education. Each of these subjects proved to be valuable in future years as the students became the citizens and responsible individuals of tomorrow.

Vast World Of Design

Derek Brown

B.A.; Kansas City Art Institute; Edinburg College of Art; Art; Dramatics Club Sponsor

Under the guidance of Mr. Brown and Mrs. Phelps, art classes at FCHS provided an opportunity for talented and artistically minded students to improve and display their abilities.

Everyone was grateful for the many displays of art work throughout the building during the school year. Posters and banners during Homecoming week were appreciated. Also, assistance on club projects and sets for school plays were most unselfishly offered by the Art Department.

Art students strived to achieve the three basic goals of art. The first was an introduction into the vast world of art in which students studied the major art fields of drawing, painting, sculpture, design, and graphics. The second was a further study of the major art fields with emphasis on graphics, important artists, and art movements while the third was an in-depth study of special art fields such as theatrical design. Also, an in-depth study of art history was pursued.

All of this extensive education in art provided a background of cultural appreciation for each individual.

Franklin County High School was extremely proud of the band, stage band, majorettes, and flag corps. Each member of the Marching Eagles spent countless hours practicing so that he could entertain others.

During the year the band performed at many ball games, and its rousing numbers set the mood for many exciting contests. Everyone looked forward to half-time when the band played and marched, and the majorettes and flag corps delighted all with exciting and well-executed routines.

One of the highlights of the year was when several of the most talented band members were chosen for all-state. This was a high honor for qualified band students to represent FCHS.

Choir Members Develop Poise Through

Under the direction of Mrs. Frances Keen, the students in the Choral Department put forth their best effort and made this year one of great accomplishments. They represented the school in many activities such as Parents' Night, the annual Christmas Assembly, Spring Concert, and special church services.

The choir began at the beginning of the year to prepare and to organize the numerous presentations they were to offer in the coming months. The different choir groups, such as the Girls' Quartets, Boys' Trio, and the Concert Choir frequently united their voices in song to produce full, rich tones of music. However, in many instances, those individual groups performed separately.

One of the main purposes of the Choral Department was to extend the cultural standards in our school and community by presenting the best in vocal music. Another aim of the department was to develop natural talents for singing and to improve voice control.

Working hard through the year to prepare numbers the student body and community would enjoy and appreciate, the members of the choirs felt a sense of satisfaction and pleasure in presenting such successful concerts.

Rushing to the auditorium, Debra Wade tries not to be late for the Sunday afternoon Christmas Concert.

And Preparing Meals Are Performed With Care

Mrs. Katie Poindexter
Dietician

Well-balanced and nutritious meals were excellently prepared by the cafeteria staff for the student body and administration of Franklin County High School. The preparation of such meals required the cooperation of the staff members under the supervision of Mrs. Katie Poindexter. Students looked forward to getting together over the hot meals served by the cafeteria staff; therefore, the hard work that had gone into the preparation of each meal was appreciated.

Maintenance of FCHS and its surrounding grounds demanded a great amount of effort on the part of the custodian staff. Picking up papers, sweeping classrooms, and keeping everything in working order was an endless task performed daily by the custodians.

Busing students to and from the far and near corners of the county was the major duty of the student bus drivers. Maintaining order and handling any emergencies which presented themselves, the bus drivers exhibited intelligence, maturity, and patience in meeting their many responsibilities. The work of these often went unnoticed, but this valuable service did not go unrecognized.

CO-OPERATION

As the new school year at Franklin County High School began, each student looked forward to the exciting opportunities the year would present. For seniors those were the days of uncertain feelings, of mixed emotions, and when parting with friends became a difficult task.

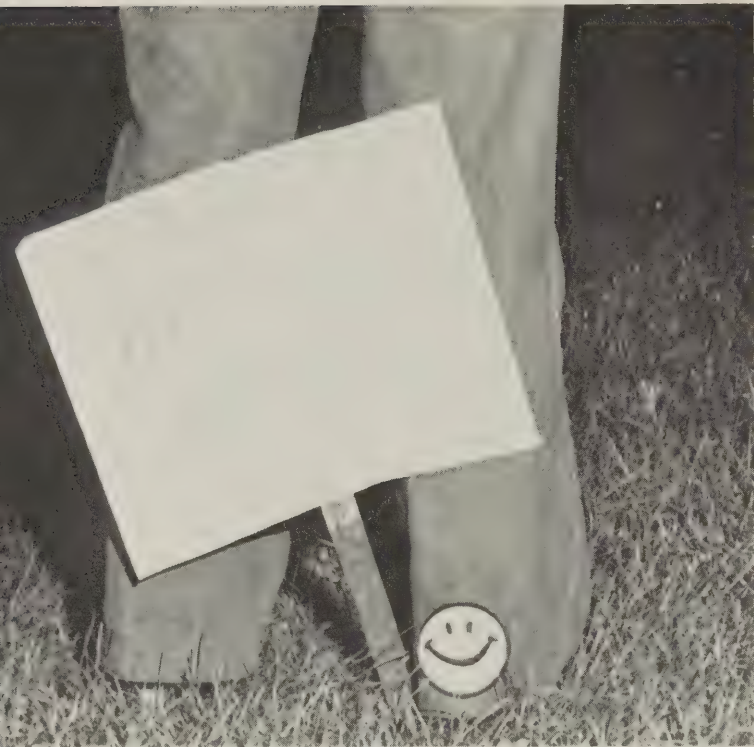

Enthusiastic juniors displayed friendly smiles and participated in all school activities. Consuming much time and hard work, the juniors honored the seniors at the annual Junior-Senior Prom. With the arrival of spring, juniors received class rings as an example of their scholastic accomplishments.

Bewildered and a little confused at first, sophomores faced the year with drive and determination as they accepted the responsibilities of a new and challenging environment. They experienced an exciting year filled with achievement through hard work.

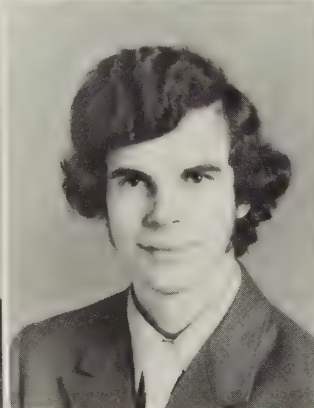

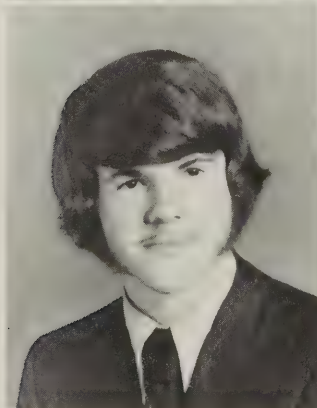

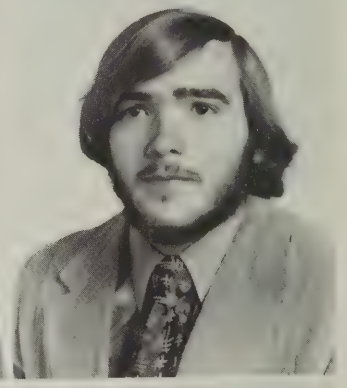

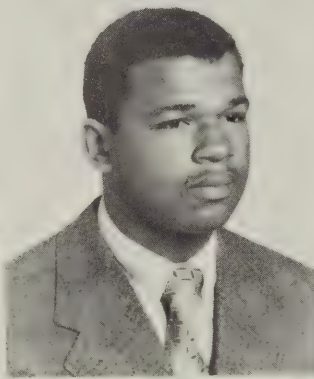

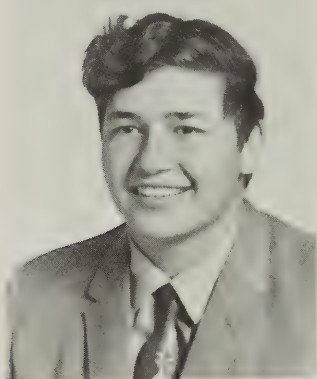

Because the students of FCHS worked together in their quest for knowledge, those were the days when the young people of Franklin County looked toward a brighter and more successful future.

Privileges Of Being Seniors

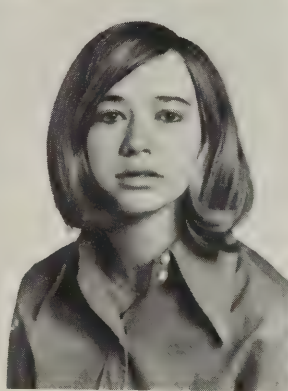

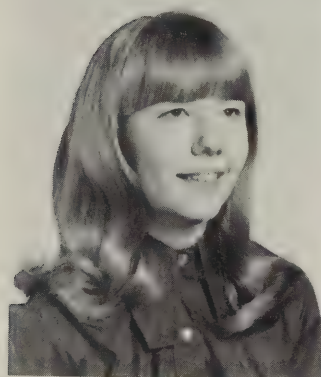

After two years of standing in an endless line and then rushing to finish lunch before the bell rings, seniors appreciate the privilege of being first.

September came and the Class of '72 arrived for their final year of senior high school, a little awed that they had reached their senior year so soon. With them they brought memories of other years. They remembered their sophomore year, with the newly gained prestige of being in the "senior" high and not being just a "junior high punk" any longer. The junior year quickly arrived with a load of harder subjects, new responsibilities, and an array of tests with strange code names such as SCAT and PSAT. Along with these broadened aspects of school came rewards in the form of class rings and the Junior-Senior Prom.

Of all those years, however, the senior year proved to be the most exciting and most fleeting. The privileges of being first to assemblies and first in the lunch line made the year well worth waiting for. The Homecoming game and dance, the Dramatics Club productions, the ordering of graduation announcements, Senior Day, college acceptances, and the acquiring of job responsibilities combined to give the year an air of dramatic expectation tinged with a little sadness.

Friendships grew in importance as the days sped quickly by. Graduation night brought with it memories of endless pranks.

Still though, with diploma in hand and armed with the ageless hope of youth, the Class of '72 looked forward to a tomorrow of promise and independence.

Class Officers And SCA Members

Serving as junior homeroom presidents are Sue Hall, Robin Turner, Gloria Wray, Cindy Campbell, Susan Prillaman, Donna Cundiff, Faye Milliron, and Phil Jones.

Junior class officers are Barbara Board, treasurer; Sheila Pagans, secretary; and Carolyn Bernard, president. Bonny Dillon, vice president is not pictured.

Led by their ambitious class officers, the Class of '73 helped to fill the halls with a lively, spirited attitude. Each student reflected the gay conversation, lively tone, and spirited feeling of people participating in classwork and in extra-curricular activities.

Every mind, pulsating with questions, answers, thoughts, and disappointments, was hoping for, and expecting the best. The Junior Class, although different from each class of the past, was faced with similar crucial moments.

From school days in early fall, through Christmas holidays and exams, until spring and the final hours of classes, Juniors met and solved many problems — studying for college boards, running to get in shape for varsity sports, frantically re-writing final drafts of term papers, wondering what the S.C.A. does, praying to pass French, wishing for a Spanish teacher who speaks English, seeing who can get the first suntan, and desperately working to finish the decorating for the Junior-Senior Prom.

And so, the life and future of Franklin County High School lies partly in the abilities and ambitions of the enthusiastic Class of '73, aware of their past mistakes, and awaiting the challenge of future problems.

Helping to crowd the halls with life and enthusiasm, the active class of '74 reached the midpoint of their high school career. They began to shoulder many of the important responsibilities of Franklin County High School. The spirited sophomores eagerly participated in academic and extra-curricular activities.

Studying was an important part of their year. They struggled with geometry problems, dissected starfish in biology, and all of this hard work paid off when excellent grades were received by many industrious students.

Sophomores also carried their load in extra-curricular activities. The junior varsity teams consisted mainly of tenth graders and some played a vital role in varsity sports. Girls took part in cheerleading and track. The successful United Fund Drive and Magazine Sales Campaign could be attributed to the determination and enthusiasm of the tenth graders.

Thus, participation in studies and extra-curricular activities showed the unity and enthusiasm of the sophomore class.

ORGANIZATION

Over twenty clubs and organizations designed to aid in one's social and mental growth were found at Franklin County High School. Some of the clubs added to the classroom education, others presented useful experiences, and still others explored separate fields of interest. Meeting new people and working toward worthwhile movements which were for individual and group advantage were the chief acts of each organization. Participation in club activities promoted a sense of cooperation within the character of each member. These clubs also prepared each participant for the severe life ahead and helped to refine his abilities.

By using time wisely in extra-curricular activities, students became self-reliant, developed new attitudes, and obtained leadership qualities. Tomorrow's leaders emerged from clubs such as the ones present at FCHS. Years after other things had slipped from memory, each student looked back at those days of successful activities and was proud he took the time to organize worthy clubs.

Student Council Experiences Most Successful Year

Every student enrolled at FCHS was a member of the Student Cooperative Association. A representative group of the student body known as the Student Council, which consisted of homeroom presidents and club delegates, met monthly to discuss and solve student needs and problems.

As years before, the Student Council successfully completed numerous worthwhile projects. Among these were the school chest drive, the magazine sales campaign, providing a school Christmas tree, participation in the international "CARE" project, sponsoring Senior Day, decorating showcases, and sponsoring various assemblies. This year the SCA constitution was revised to enable students seeking SCA offices to run for the office they desired instead of receiving an office according to the number of votes received. A committee was also elected by the SCA to help prepare the school calendar for next year.

Representatives of the council attended the District Conference and the summer workshop. SCA president, Bays Wolfe, also attended a drug conference at Radford, Virginia.

Pep Club Encourages Spirit And Enthusiasm

PEP CLUB OFFICERS: Alicia Tuning, President; Debra Taylor, Vice-President; Daphyne Saunders, Secretary; Karen Brooks, Treasurer.

Newly formed for the benefit of fans and the athletic program at Franklin County High School, the Pep Club was organized by students. By holding all club meetings after regular school hours, the club members in attendance were truly dedicated to boosting school spirit among the large student body. At the first meeting, the task of electing officers, collecting dues, and deciding on a constitution was completed efficiently by the new members. Much enthusiasm was shown by members as they got their first chance to promote school spirit and good sportsmanship throughout the year. Sponsored by Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Featherston and Mrs. Teresa Bennington, the group prepared posters, learned cheers, and sat together in a section so that they could boost the enthusiasm of the crowd.

With their first money-making project, the Pep Club was becoming a successful self-supporting club and a worthwhile addition to the extra-curricular program at Franklin County High School.

One of the highlights of the year for both old and new Beta members is the Installation Banquet. Responsible for planning this event are Raymond Keys, Chairman Rene Martin, Vaneta McAlexander, and Delores Young.

At Impressive Installation Banquet

BETA CLUB OFFICERS: Delores Young, Treasurer; Daphne Brown, President; Debra Toney, Secretary; Andy Byrd, Vice President; Mrs. Milam, Sponsor; Miss Sink, Sponsor.

Composed of students with high academic averages, the Franklin County High School Chapter of the National Beta Club experienced an eventful year. Making contributions to the United Fund Drive, the school Chest Drive, and the Franklin County Junior Rescue Squad, the members strove to become involved in school and community affairs. Every member participated in the bake sale, a money making project which was a tremendous success.

The club played Santa to a needy family at Christmas by bringing food, clothing, and toys that could be used and enjoyed by all the family members. Also during the year, guest speakers gave informative talks on subjects relevant to each member.

Of course the two highlights of the year were the installation ceremony and the State Convention. This year the second annual banquet for the installation of new Beta members was held at the Longwood Restaurant. The State Beta Club Convention held at Hotel Roanoke the weekend of March 17 proved to be an enjoyable trip for all. All of these events combined to form an active year for the FCHS Beta Club.

A Successful Homecoming Assembly

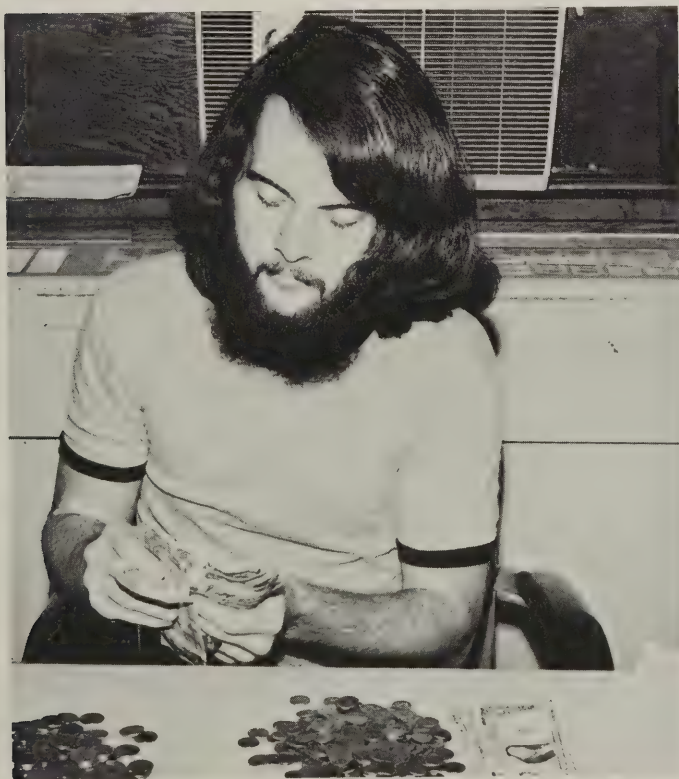

Cliff Hughes and Gus Morris seem to agree that counting votes for the homecoming court is more fun than going to class.

Composed of tenth, eleventh, and twelfth grade boys, the Hi-Y was a service club affiliated with the state and national Y.M.C.A. To build Christian character and leadership was the aim of the club. As a service club, the Hi-Y rendered assistance to those less fortunate and found the importance of putting others first.

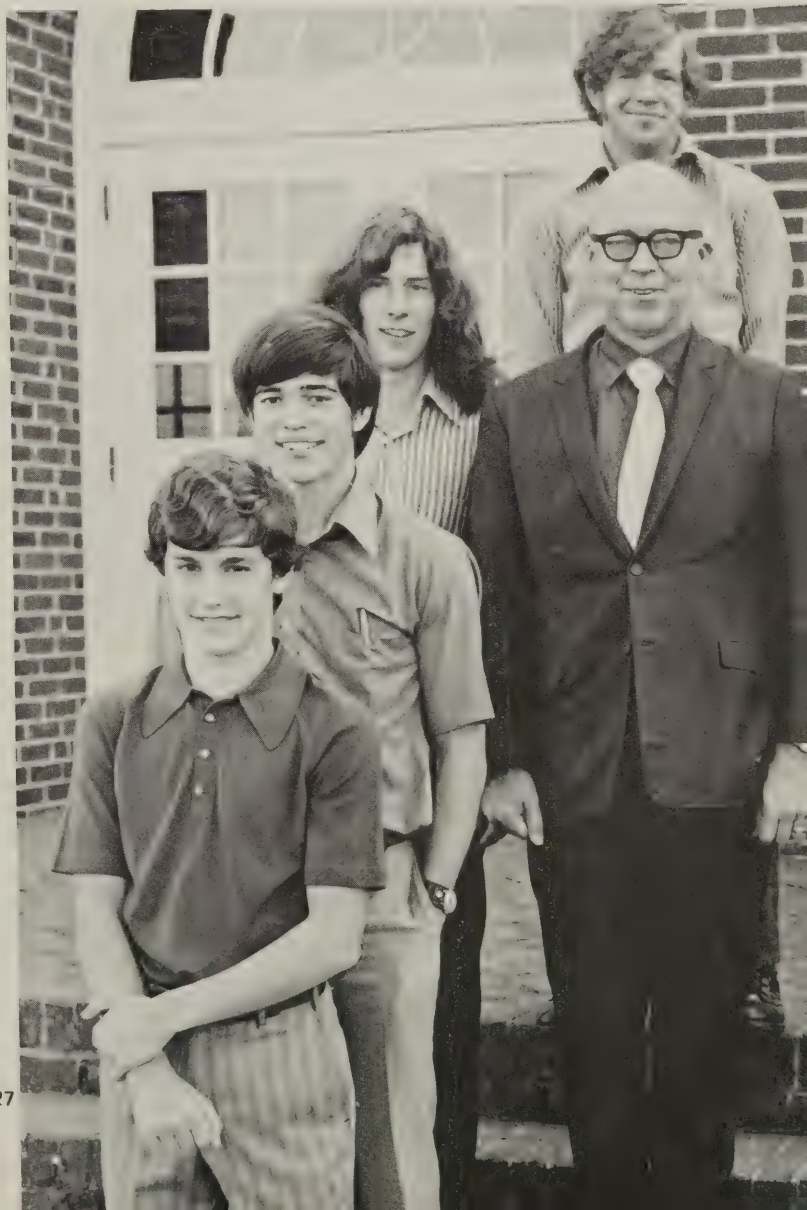

During the year, the Hi-Y sponsored the election of the homecoming court and co-sponsored an Induction and Rededication Service with the Tri-Hi-Y Clubs. Other activities included attending the district conference and the Model General Assembly.

The members of the club strove to display the high moral standards and the qualities of leadership that were synonymous with the words Hi-Y at Franklin County High School.

HI-Y OFFICERS: Cliff Hughes, President; Steve Flora, Vice President; Paul Wray, Secretary; Mr. Williams, Sponsor; and Larry Webb, Chaplain.

Alpha Tri-Hi-Y Members Demonstrate Concern

Alpha Tri-Hi-Y, composed of senior girls, united the purposes of creating, maintaining, and extending Christian standards to achieve various goals and projects of service throughout the year. Members participated in KOPE Week, the District Tri-Hi-Y Conference, Model General Assembly, and an Induction and Rededication Service. At Christmas, baskets of food were prepared for needy families.

Doris Boitnott, Daphyne Saunders, and Alyce Altice are delegates to the Model General Assembly.

Members Of Trinity Tri-Hi-Y Complete

Trinity Tri-Hi-Y, composed of junior and sophomore girls, worked throughout the year performing tasks to be of service to others. The purpose of the club was to create, maintain, and extend throughout the home, school, and community high standards of Christian character. Each member participated in significant world service and local community projects while enjoying the genuine fellowship of girls with a common interest.

Trinity Tri-Hi-Y participated in such activities as the Model General Assembly, District Conference, District Workshop, Junior Hi-Y Assembly, and the Training Conference.

A year full of service, work and fellowship, coupled with a Christian cause and purpose added up to high ideals to which members were dedicated and by which they were judged.

Bringing honor to Trinity are Sheri Layman, representative for the Central District at State Hi-Y Council; Gladys Boitnott, MGA Page; and Dreama Plybon, district chaplain.

Horizons Of The Teaching Profession

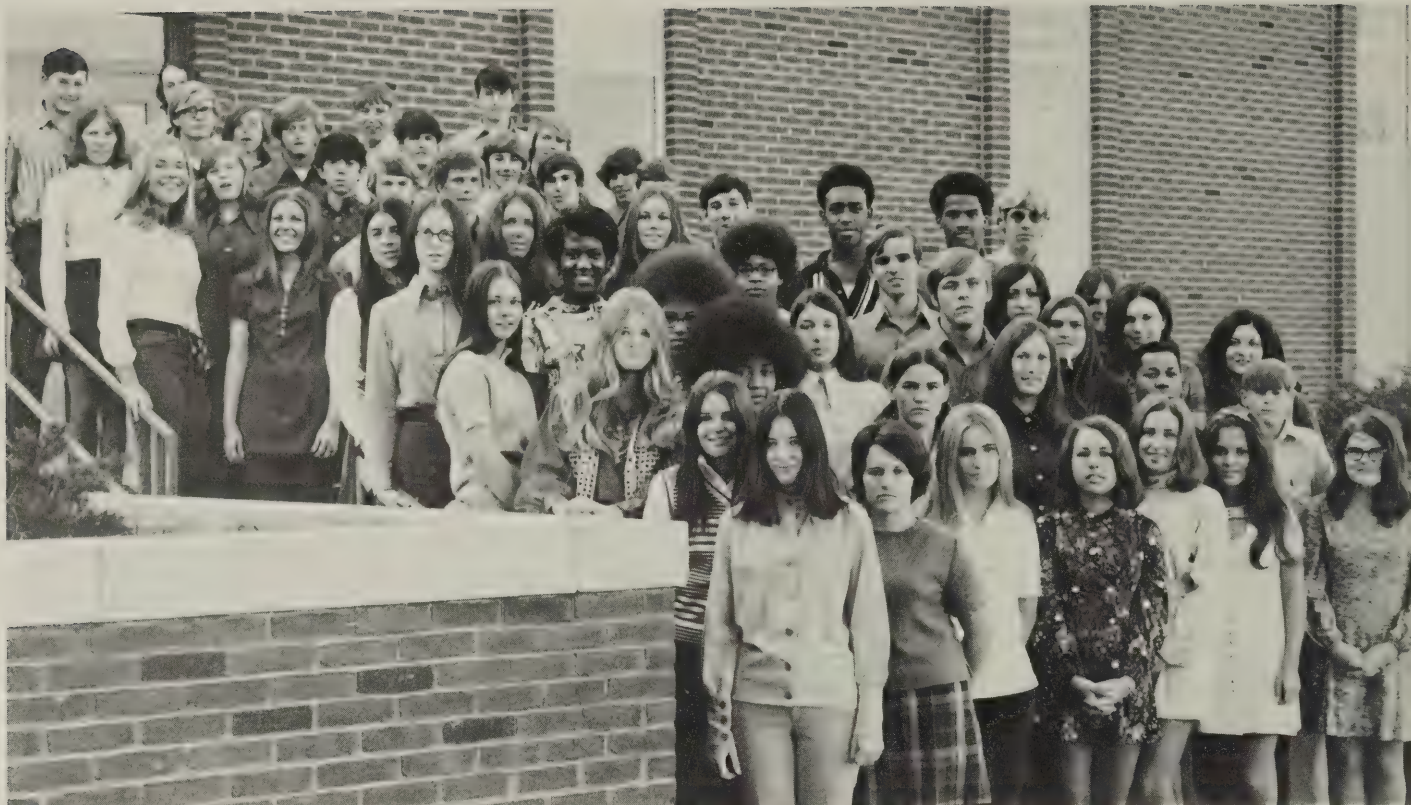

FTA OFFICERS: Nancy Mitchell, Historian; Robbie Heckman, Secretary; Birdie Edwards, Treasurer; Becky Hunley, Chaplain; Bill Cooper, Vice President; and not pictured, Joyce Ramsey, President.

Under the capable guidance of sponsors, Mrs. Mc-Minnis and Mrs. McLaughlin, the Future Teachers of America had a very progressive year. The club had over sixty hard working and dedicated members. The officers continually tried to improve the club during the year and managed to keep strict attendance records in order to limit the club's attendance to those that were members.

Activities of the FTA included sponsoring a teacher appreciation day and "Back To School" program. The FHA and FCHS Choirs helped make this program very successful. A bake sale was also held to raise enough money to finance other club projects, such as a field trip to a local college. Robbie Heckman and Joyce Ramsey were delegates to the FTA Convention in November held at the John Marshall Hotel in Richmond. They attended workshops and received ideas from other clubs throughout the state. A scrapbook was displayed at the convention, and Robbie Heckman ran for an office, losing by a very close margin.

Spanish Club Members Observe

Students who were interested in the customs of the people of Spain and Latin America explored these countries through the Spanish Club. One highlight of the year was the Christmas Party where Spanish style foods were served. Another Spanish custom observed at the party was the breaking of the pinata. Club members also enjoyed the various guest speakers who discussed Latin America and the Spanish customs.

Latin Club Imparts Understanding Of

The "Societas Latina," not just a Latin Club, was a chapter of the National Junior Classical League. The purpose of JCL was to promote a more thorough knowledge of Roman life, history, and literature, and to impart a better understanding of the practical and cultural value of the classics.

Members attended the two-day JCL State Convention at Natural Bridge in November which provided for arts and crafts competition, scholastic and costume contests, workshops, Roman banquets, and dancing with a live band. The convention was fun, learning, as well as interesting.

The final activity of the year was the annual Roman Banquet which was held in May in the school cafeteria. Latin II and Latin III members of the club, brightly clad in beautiful togas and stolas were served the "cena" by the traditional Latin I slaves. Feasters gorged themselves "Ab ovo usque ad mala" and drowned their sorrows in grape Kool-Aid miraculously turned into wine by invocation to Bacchus. Slaves were bought and sold, dancing, music, skits, and gladiatorial fights entertained the guests.

The chapter will send a delegation to the National JCL Convention at Virginia Tech, Blacksburg, for five days in August.

LATIN CLUB OFFICERS: Cynthia Cook, Treasurer; David Ferguson, President; Leon Sink, Parliamentarian; Susan Milam, Secretary; Mrs. Thurman, Sponsor; Mark Goodpasture, Vice President.

Delegates to the state JCL convention at Natural Bridge are Cynthia Ferguson, Linda Shively, and Susan Milam.

Sue Parcell, Kay Goodpasture, Melanie Coffey, Roy Beheler, Millard Flora, and David Amos are chosen as the best dressed Romans on initiation day.

French Club Members Enjoy French

To promote a more thorough knowledge and an interest in French life and culture was the main purpose of the French Club. Striving for a deeper understanding of the language and a keener sense of appreciation of the French customs and people, the club planned interesting and informative programs. Composed of first, second, and third year French students, the club greatly increased its membership this year.

One of the most interesting activities of the club was the annual Christmas Party. Club members prepared and served French pastries to provide an insight into the French way of life. The club strove to provide an opportunity for all interested members to travel to France to gain a first-hand knowledge of the country and its people.

As a part of French Club initiation, Kathy Radford rides Dick Greene piggyback.

Of America Has Largest Membership In State

Rita Pendleton and Debra Flora are the FCHS representatives at the 1971 Summer Leadership Conference at Massanetta Springs in Harrisonburg.

In its infancy, the Franklin County High School Chapter of the Future Business Leaders of America boasted the largest membership in the state of Virginia. The selling of potholders; attending the Summer Leadership Conference; participating in the Regional Conferences; taking part in FBLA week; attending the State Leadership Conference; and attending the National Leadership Conference were among the activities of the two hundred members.

With a motto of "service, education, and progress," FBLA members completed projects for the improvement of the school and the business community. Also, club members entered the following contests: Mr. and Miss FBLA; spelling relay; public speaking; bulletin board; most original project; best chapter exhibit; and arithmetic. At the Summer Leadership Conference, Rita Pendleton won the "Best Conversationalist" contest.

Future Homemakers Strive To Build

FHA OFFICERS: Marlene Montgomery, Vice President; Teresa Philpott, Secretary; Marie Jamison, Historian; Alyce Altice, President; Karen Jamison, Reporter; Kay Thurman, Degree Chairman; Kathy Hall, Treasurer; Carolyn Handy, Chaplain; Glenna Webster, SCA Representative.

FHA celebrated "Christmas Around the World" including an important part of an American Christmas — Santa Claus. Marlene Montgomery and Santa are eagerly awaiting their refreshments.

Members of the Future Homemakers of America believed that the home and the family were the basis of a democratic and just society and that what the world has been and will become is greatly determined by the family life of each individual. Members were aware of the growing problems of the world and sought to help by exploring the causes of these problems. Through the programs of the local chapter, "Make time work for you" and "Preparedness, the key to opportunity," future homemakers became more aware of the importance of using their time wisely and the need for developing initiative and resourcefulness to prepare for the future. Specific FHA activities were designed to involve the family, thus helping to bring family members together and, at the same time, helping all involved become more aware of the necessity of preparation today for the opportunities of tomorrow.

The activities sponsored by the club included preparing a Thanksgiving basket for a needy family, selling candy, conducting a bake sale, participating in the Star Federation meeting in Roanoke, attending the state FHA convention, and sponsoring a FHA banquet.

FFA members, Wilbert Hopkins, Michael Bower, Wayne Bower, and sponsor, Mr. Dishon, admire the National Silver Emblem Award presented to the Franklin County FFA Chapter at the National FFA Convention.

Future Farmers of America was a national organization of, by, and for youths studying agriculture education. Leadership, cooperation, service, thrift, scholarship, improved agriculture, citizenship, and patriotism were the foundation upon which the FFA organization was built. Members of the Franklin County Chapter met the goals of this year's theme of national FFA week, "Youth With A Purpose."

Some of the programs completed were fund raising campaigns, special displays and programs during FFA week, farm and home safety projects, and the annual Parent-Son Banquet. Members also participated in the annual contests which included forestry, dairy judging, public speaking, tractor driving, degree team, and farm mechanics.

The Franklin County Chapter also held recreation activities which included a week at FHA-FFA Camp, a wiener roast, a summer picnic, and attended the state convention at Blacksburg, Virginia.

Vocational Industrial Clubs Of America

Vocational Industrial Clubs of America was composed of fifty students enrolled in cosmetology, power mechanics, masonry, and electricity at Franklin County High School. The purpose of VICA was symbolized by its emblem: the torch of knowledge, the orbital circles symbolizing new technology and research; the gear as the traditional symbol of industry; and the untrained hands of youth, reaching for the torch of knowledge. VICE existed in order to give members opportunities and experiences that would help them to grow as persons.

To secure operating funds, VICA members held a very successful candy sales campaign. One highlight of the year was the building of a float for the Christmas parade. With a motif of "Frosty the Snowman," the club captured second place honors. In February, members of the club entered district competition at E. C. Glass High School in Lynchburg.

Distributive Education Helps To Prepare

Designed especially for students enrolled in Distributive Education, the Distributive Education Club of America was an organization of leadership and personal development. The program of instruction in DE was marketing, merchandising, and management.

The DECA chapter was the showcase for student achievement and progress. Through its activities, students with an interest in marketing and distribution were attracted to the DE program. The Franklin County Chapter planned activities including social, civic, professional, and benevolent projects which provided for school and community betterment.

DECA activities provided members an opportunity to serve as leaders as well as followers and provided an opportunity for them to receive state and national recognition because of their achievements.

The four points of the diamond shaped DECA emblem symbolized vocational understanding, civic consciousness, social intelligence, and leadership development. The wrapped package symbolized the close cooperation of student, teacher, parent, and merchant in assisting DE students to acquire a well-rounded education.

Debaters Take Stand On Jury System

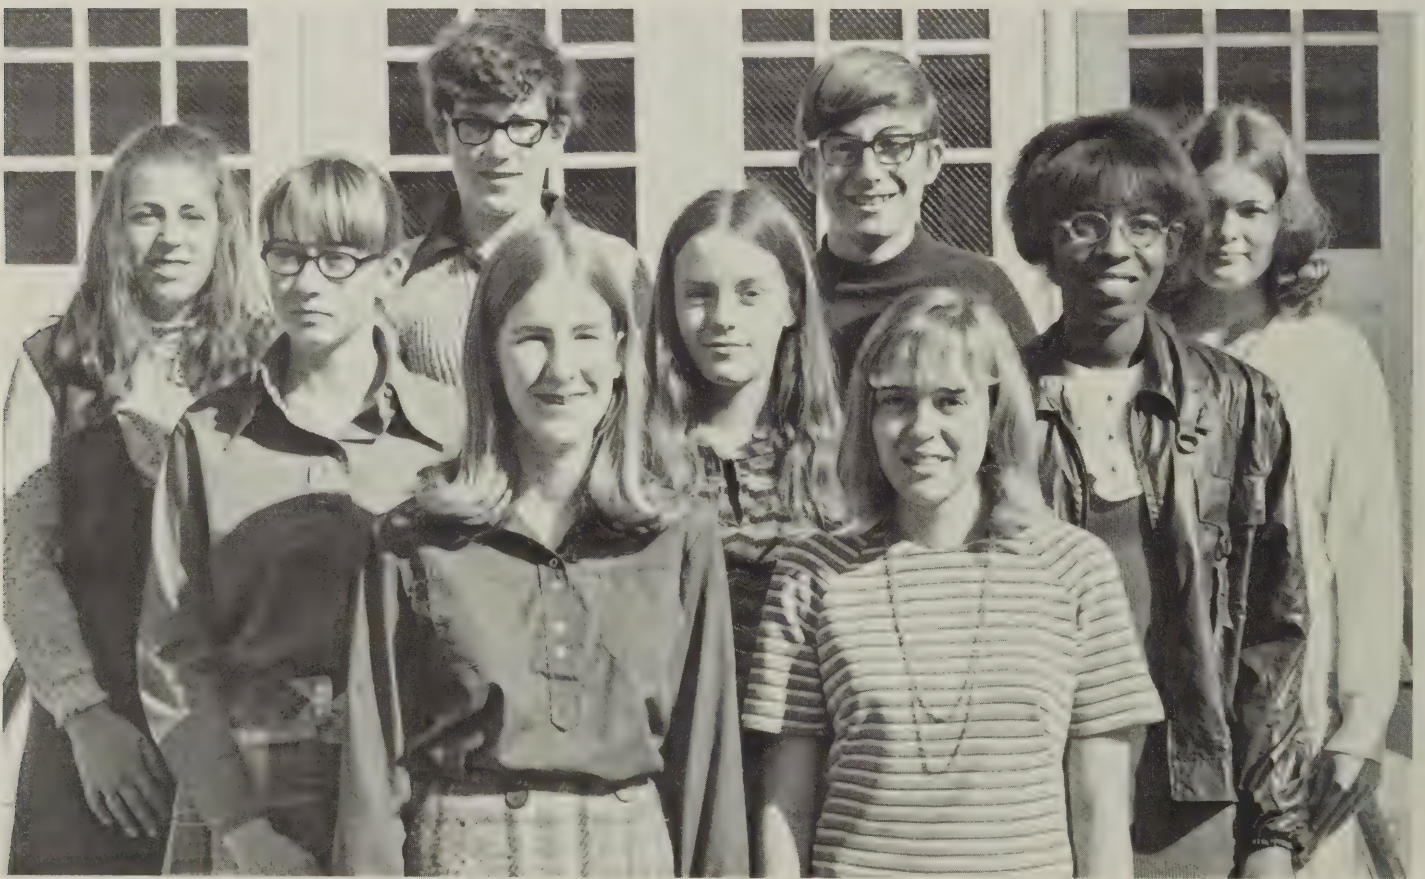

For the year 1971-72, the Franklin County High School debaters had the topic, Resolved: That the jury system of the United States should be significantly changed. Extensive research on the topic helped the Debate Team to complete one of their finest years of competition. Aside from practice debates among fellow debaters, the team participated in several tournaments. The Eagle debaters traveled to Longwood College, Madison College, and several other tournaments. Also, the Roanoke Valley District Debate Tournament was held at FCHS in April.

The four main objectives of debating were: to enable students to better themselves in competition with other students; to gain a better understanding of the techniques of research; to develop good speaking qualities; and to learn to think quickly and accurately.

Under the sponsorship of Mrs. Judy Bateman, the Eagle debaters learned the arts of argumentation and speech and gained experience in the fields of rhetoric and public speaking.

Science Club Encourages Research

SCIENCE CLUB OFFICERS: Reyburn Martin, Secretary; Johnnie Hudson, Treasurer; Steve Mullins, Vice President; George Hutcherson, President.

To prepare interested students for a career in a scientific field was the main goal of the Science Club. With the leadership of sponsor, Mr. Handran, the club strived to promote an interest in science, to stimulate thinking among students, and to encourage research.

Through field trips to points of scientific interest, members observed science at work in many different situations. Each member completed an individual project in an area in which they were interested. After much research and investigation, these projects were entered in the local Science Fair.

THE FRANKLIN EAGLE Strives To Keep

Despite setbacks of many kinds, The Franklin Eagle was still in the running. This year a new student opinion page was designated in order to create student interest and to air viewpoints on key issues of school life.

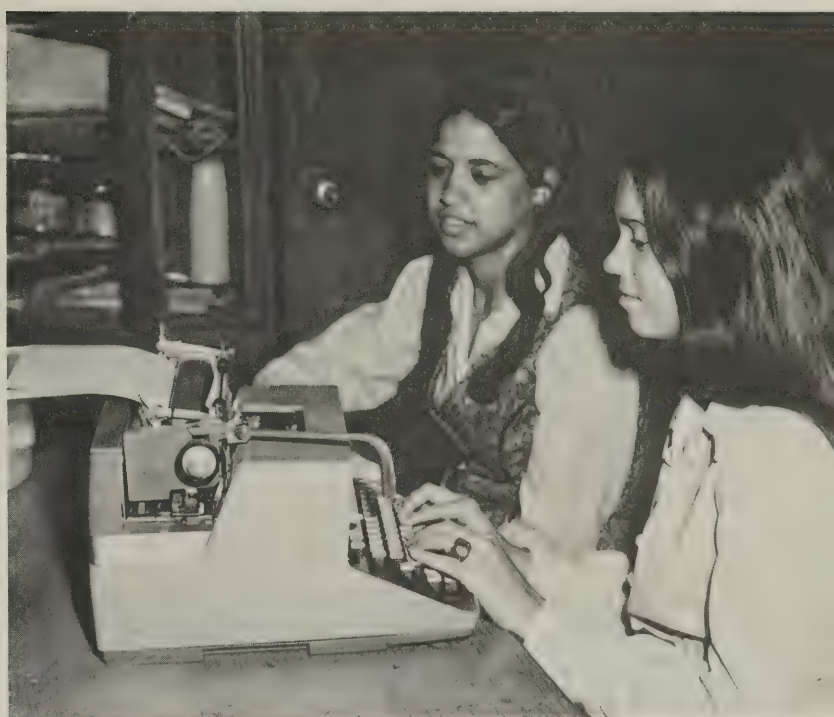

As usual the staff worked hard. The news and features staff had the job of collecting and writing opinion stories while the sports staff tried to find new and interesting ways to present past sports events to the Eagle readers. Money managing and advertising was left to the business managers. The co-editors were busy overseeing the entire process, giving orders, and also working hard. As one can see, the newspaper was the finished product of a combined effort to make each issue of The Franklin Eagle the best yet.

Sarah Davis, Assistant Business Manager, and Kathy Beale, Business Manager estimate the cost of the next issue of the Franklin Eagle.

Mary Jo Bowman, Keith Edwards, and George Hutcherson give careful thought and consideration to each article that comprises the sports section.

Senior section editor, Rene Martin, and typist Patsy Mitchell, try to "butter-up" Mrs. Stanley, by presenting her with an apple.

Business Manager, Karen Dudley, and Phyllis Plunkett, Assistant Business Manager, spend fun-filled hours "gambling away" annual staff funds.

Daphyne Saunders and Doris Boitnott, members of the faculty staff, quietly await the exit of an unsuspecting teacher.

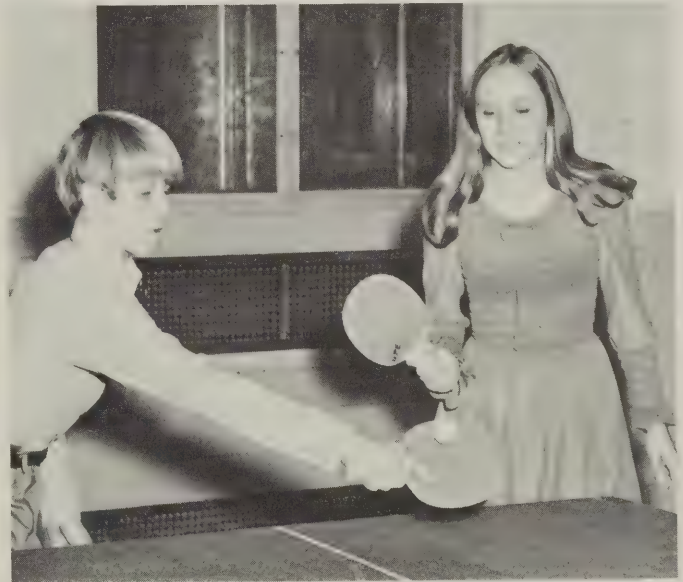

The Animo Staff Creates Own Playground

The cameraman has apparently caught Cheryl Lynch, index editor; Holly Bauknecht, junior editor; and David Sumrell, sophomore editor, in a rousing game of "cowboys and Indians."

In the late spring of 1971, the FCHS Annual Staff began the task of creating the '72 yearbook. Selecting the theme and the color were among the endless details met by the staff. The actuality of these ideas was fulfilled with the financial support received from advertisements sold to local businesses during the summer months. Drawing layouts, writing copy, taking photographs, completing masters, indexing names, and sending off the final section were among the numerous tasks performed by these dedicated students as they prepared a memorable reflection of Franklin County High School in 1971-72.

Sports staff, Charles Atkinson and Nancy Mitchell, take a break to play an exhilarating game of table tennis.

Encouraging Good Sportsmanship And

Development of sportsmanship and an excellence in athletics was the purpose of the Varsity Club. Members of the club came from the football, basketball, baseball, wrestling, golf, track, and cheerleading squads.

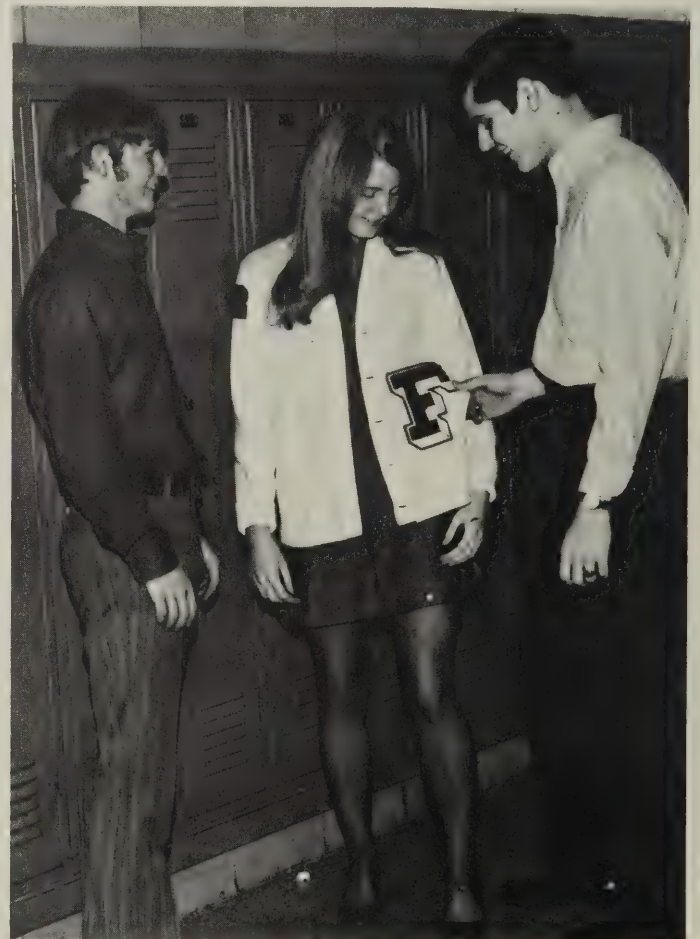

To earn membership in the club a student must have earned a varsity letter. When two letters were earned, a member was awarded a sweater. These sweaters were paid for by the club through soliciting ads for the football and basketball programs.

Some of the club's activities were the sale of football and basketball programs, presenting the athletics awards assembly, a picnic, and club initiation. Under the leadership of Coach Ligon, president Glenn Powell, and dedicated members, the Varsity Club had a successful and meaningful year.

Richard Jarrett, one of the Varsity Club members, receives an award at the Football Banquet for Best Defensive Back.

Mask And Gavel Society Provides

In By the Waters of Babylon, Mike Holland and Bonny Dillon are young people facing a negative future.

Led by directors, Mr. Nix and Mr. Brown, the Dramatics Club completed a year of hard work, operating on a drastically reduced membership. This year the Dramatics Club strove to cover the whole spectrum of theater. The stage of the "Miss Franklin County Pageant" was designed and executed by club members. In November, officers attended a regional workshop to learn new methods of stage design, prop building, acting, and self-expression. In December, after exhaustive rehearsal, three one-act plays of an experimental nature were presented to the public. Using only a minimal set, the plays depended entirely on acting, lighting, and sound effects for their impact. Mr. Brown and Jeff Flora, stage manager, were highly successful in their use of interesting technical effects.

Virginia Hutcherson, costume and make-up mistress, carried a heavy responsibility and worked hard. The finances were ably handled by Bonny Dillon, while Leslie Garst handled the publicity. Many others worked diligently behind the scenes to present these plays. Club secretary, Susan Milam, worked at many jobs including curtain-puller, as well as participating in the plays. In spite of the fact that the club had an entirely new group, this was a very successful year.

Both Students And Teachers Benefit From The

Franklin County High School's Library Club constituted a group of students who served as library assistants before school and during their study halls. Checking out books and magazines, keeping the bookshelves in order, and locating necessary materials were among the numerous tasks performed by the members of the club.

Three main purposes instilled by membership in the Library Club were: students who liked to read and work with books were given the opportunity; library assistants rendered a valuable service to their school; and there were opportunities for fellowship among the Library Club members.

A basic interest in books, scholastic standing, dependability, and a willingness to serve their fellow students were the qualifications for becoming a member of the Library Club.

Winners of the Library Club initiation contest are Debra Shorter, Robin Menefee, and Debra Cooper.

Choir Presents Assemblies And Concerts For

People may not understand the same language, but there are no barriers in music. Singing is the ageless way of expressing feelings and emotion through words and music.

This year, Franklin County High School was very fortunate to have three outstanding choirs which represented the school in many activities. Members of the Chorale, Concert Choir, and Girls Choir actively participated in many activities such as the District Choir Festival, special church services, civic organizations, a Christmas concert, a spring concert, and a variety of school assemblies.

Each individual of the choir strove to do his best, not only for his own personal satisfaction and gain, but knowing that through his efforts combined with those of other members, the resulting performances would be ones of a high caliber which would surely please any audience.

AMBITION

While classes, clubs, and sports played an important role in each student's life, still another phase of school life was necessary. Those were the days of hard work that went into the special activities of the school year.

Fall brought the first big social event of the year — Homecoming. Those days were filled with electing a queen and court and were climaxed with a football game and dance. The most remembered and certainly the most cherished dance of the year was the Junior-Senior Prom.

Bringing honor to the school and to themselves, several students were recognized for their outstanding work in various fields. The musically talented were chosen for All-State Choir and All-State Band, while other students received letters of commendation from the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Exam. Other honor students were selected to attend Boys' State and Girls' State.

With a sense of pride and accomplishment, those were the days of special activities the students of FCHS will always remember.

After Months Of Planning And Hard Work,

Seeming to forget about the rest of the world, these couples are caught-up in the magical enchantment of the evening.

The fast, vibrating music of a good band, The Blue Chords, adds greatly to the enjoyment of these happy couples on prom night.

Decorating the gym to carry out the prom theme, "We've Only Just Begun" is a large job as these juniors discover.

Spring Prom Becomes A Reality

Dancing the night away, these couples experience a delightful time which will remain in their memories for a long while to come.

"We've Only Just Begun" provided an evening of pure enchantment for those who attended the Junior-Senior Prom of 1971. Putting aside all thoughts of graduation and admiring the finished product which was diligently completed, students danced to the sound of the Blue Chords.

Starting with a class meeting, juniors first exchanged imaginative ideas for the prom. These suggestions were transformed into meaningful plans and with the aid of the art department they soon became a part of reality instead of yesterday's dream. Long hours of constant organization and hard work resulted in a beautiful memory as the last social event of the year.

With the completion of prom preparations, the anticipated evening finally arrived. Smiling as they danced through the world of "We've Only Just Begun," the seniors expressed their appreciation for the arduous work done by the juniors. The evening was a smashing success as students reminisced over past memories and looked forward to all that tomorrow could bring.

As the band starts playing the last song, juniors and seniors realize regretfully that another beautiful prom is drawing to a close.

Not Even The Rain Dampens The Festivities Of

One of the most outstanding highlights of a busy autumn at Franklin County High School was the arrival of the Homecoming weekend and the deep involvement that each student experienced as he participated in its activities.

A rainy and exciting game against Northside progressed rapidly, and during halftime, while the audience watched with their umbrellas, members of the court and candidates for Queen were presented. At last, Georgine Horton was announced as the 1971 Homecoming Queen along with Raymond Keys as Mr. Football. This overjoyed couple reigned over the Homecoming Dance the following evening as members of the alumni and other students celebrated a victory over Northside.

A light rain fell throughout the FCHS Homecoming game, but a little rain doesn't seem to dampen the spirits of Gladys Boitnott, sophomore representative, who was escorted by Jerrold Flora.

Juniors Kathy McGhee and Noel Arrington dance to the vibrant music of Sour Mash.

Homecoming '71

The decorations carrying out the theme of "Colour My World" and the music provided by the band create an enchanting atmosphere for students.

After several fast numbers, Glenn Powell and his date Bettie Carter seem to enjoy dancing to a slower tempo.

Attendants and their escorts, surrounding Homecoming Queen, Georgine Horton and Mr. Football, Raymond Keys are: Gladys Boitnott, Vann Smith, Sheryl Horton, Diane McGuire, Jennie Montgomery, Bonnie Pagans, Glenn Powell, Randy Carter, Noel Arrington, Birchie Warren, Ricky Smith, and Sherrard Holland.

Individuals Receive Recognition

Daphyne Saunders, Semi-Finalist in the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test for Negro Students, receives offers from more than a dozen top colleges in the United States because of her academic excellence.

Invited to attend Boys' State at the College of William and Mary are John Stanley, Roger Holland, Bays Wolfe, and Glenn Powell.

Selected to attend Girls' State on the basis of their academic achievement and mutual interest in history and government are Daphyne Saunders, Carla Flora, Della Griffith, and not pictured, Joyce Ramsey.

For Special Talents And Abilities

Raymond Kays, after being named to the All-District Football Team, signed with the University of Virginia for a full grant-in-aid.

Many individuals received recognition for their special talents and abilities during the 1971-72 school session. Winning the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test Semi-Finalist for Negro Students, one student received numerous opportunities for college financial aid. Also, a talented student won honors by being named to the All-District Football Team. Later on, he signed with a leading university for a full grant-in-aid after being sought after by many colleges and universities.

Selected for their excellence in United States history and government, four girls were asked to attend Girls' State, which held its sessions at Radford College. For the same superiority, four boys were selected to attend Boys' State and possibly Boys' Nation.

Finally, the three lovely members of the Senior Homecoming Court brought honor to the student body of FCHS by representing their school in parades and other festivities. Many other students were acknowledged for their worthy accomplishments near the end of the year in fields such as All-State Choir, All-State Band, Varsity Awards, Virgil H. Goode Award, and numerous college scholarships.

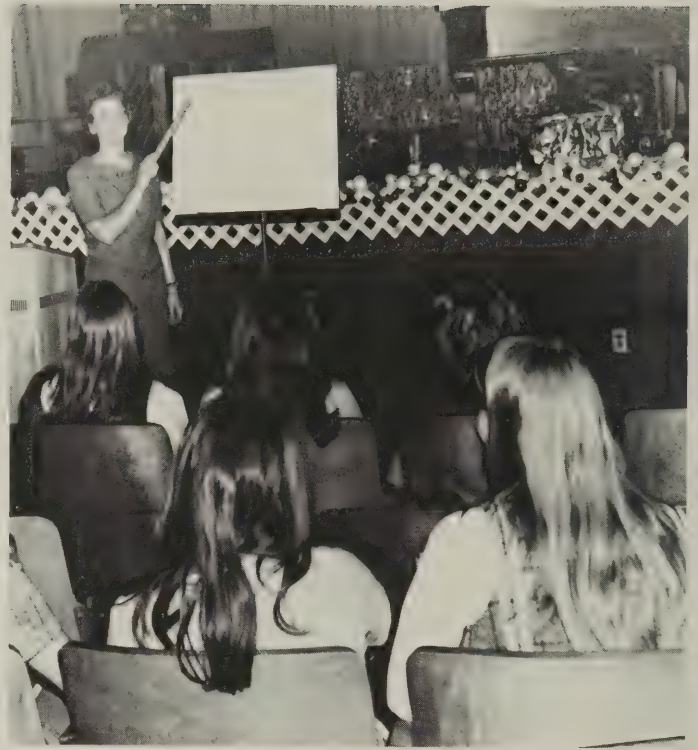

Senior members of the Homecoming Court, Georgine Horton, Queen; Bonnie Pagans; and Jennie Montgomery represent FCHS in parades and other festivities.

Many of the highlights of the hectic school year were the assemblies and events afforded by student activities. Along with the routine monthly meetings of the twenty three active clubs at Franklin County High School, special events were also held. Conventions and district conferences were attended by many club members, while a number of banquets and picnics were given for the benefit of the students. Such events as sock hops usually sponsored by the cheerleaders and special dances hosted by various clubs spiced the life of the student body.

Sports assemblies, such as wrestling, brightened the days of many avid fans to round out the year. Other assemblies were given for the purpose of students learning to share their talents with others. Early in the year, a dramatic presentation The Ledge was performed by the Dramatics Club. The Christmas Concert furnished inspiration and seasonal tidings which enriched the lives of all students.

One of the most exciting weeks of the school session was that of Homecoming '71. Students had the privilege of choosing the semi-finalists and voting for the queen and her court during the Homecoming assembly. They were also able to witness the crowning of the queen and the naming of Mr. Football at the spirited Homecoming game and to attend the long awaited Homecoming Dance.

Eligible voters have the opportunity to view the contenders for the title of Homecoming Queen and her court during a special assembly. Sheila Pagans and her escort, Steve Oakes circle the gym for the voters.

COMPETITION

Although the process of learning was the main goal of Franklin County High School, there was another part of school life which offered participation to each student. The athletic program offered the team sports of football, basketball, wrestling, track, golf, and baseball. The importance of athletic competition was impressed in each student's mind; however, only a few realized how much skill and how many hours of practice were involved in each sport.

Excellent school spirit and a feeling of respect were shown at pep rallies and games. In the midst of the raising of banners, the chanting of cheers, and the shedding of tears, each individual felt himself to be a part of the school. The overwhelming sense of pride of having done one's best was a victory in itself.

In loss or in gain, each person had contributed something which made the event significant. Looking forward to the next game, the next season, and even the next year, students awaited those days when their feelings would once again build for FCHS.

With the direction of Coaches Richard Foutz, Mason Ligon, and Miller Bennington and the leadership of co-captains Randy Carter and Glen Powell, the varsity football team proved to all that cooperation was an important key to success. Sporting new uniforms, the team demonstrated its ability to stay alert and agile. A week of practice at football camp proved meaningful as numerous teams fell prey to the powerful Eagle attack and defense.

Victory was sweet, especially when it was over arch-rival Martinsville. With their vicious ground attack and pulverizing defense, the Eagles also out-classed Liberty, Northside, Cave Spring, and Staunton.

Coach Foutz gives Johnnie Hudson the strategy for the next play during the muddy homecoming game with Northside.

Franklin County's junior varsity football team completed a highly successful season with a 4-1 record. The JV's were directed by Coaches Marshall Flora, Royal Mullins, and Charles Davis. Mark Wagner was elected captain of the team by his teammates while a co-captain was selected by the coaches for each game based on the amount of hustle the player displayed in practice.

The only defeat of the season came at the hands of Northside while the JV's very impressively whipped Andrew Lewis, William Fleming, and Cave Spring in shut outs. The Eagles closed the season with a 28-8 win over the much rivaled Martinsville team.

Working hard to demonstrate their power at the nets, the JV Eagles provided much more than a preliminary contest. During their exciting games the team received a chance to impress the coaches and the crowd as they exhibited a style that whispered of future championships. These high-flying Eagles were inspired by Coach Jimmy Thompson and Co-captains Steve Brubaker and Kenny Poindexter as they gained experience needed for varsity competition next year and closed out the season with a 9-9 record.

Franklin's Mighty Eagles Defeat Lee To Capture Roanoke Valley District Crown

"We're No. 1" was the chant throughout the season and tournament as the Mighty Eagles of FCHS worked their way into first position in the district and into the hearts of overflowing crowds of fans. Coach Al Johnson inspired his team to work hard in practice to achieve soaring heights of victory. Rewards were abundant — a huge trophy, two tournament nets, two players, Woodson Casey and Calvin Preston being named to the All-Tournament team, and an overwhelming number of fans. After winning the district tournament, the Eagles traveled to Charlottesville for the regional games where they defeated Stafford with a score of 64-54. The end of the second game showed a two point lead as G.W. of Danville had 56 points and the Eagles had 54 points. The team's sportsmanship and Eagle spirit were evident and admirable as they accepted the trophy and awards for second place in the tournament.

Highlights Eagle Golf Season

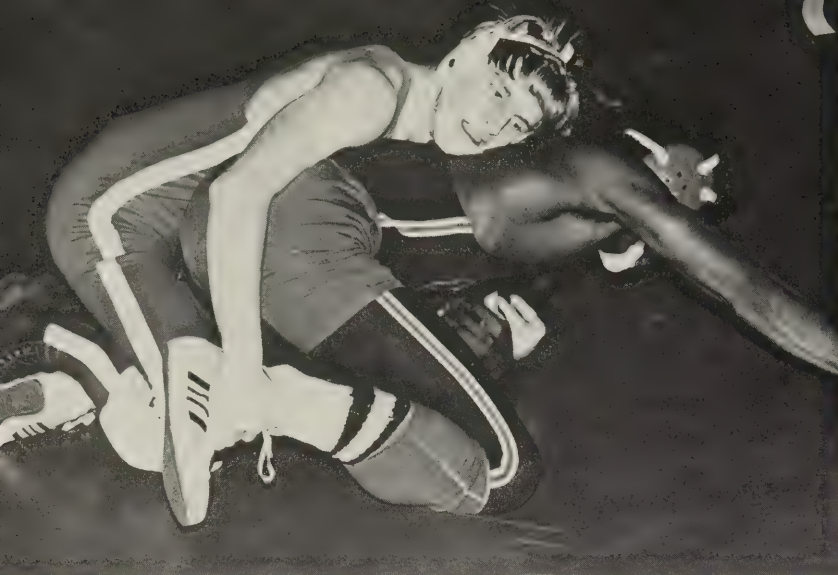

With a firm grip on his seven iron, Cliff Hughes, resolves to make the green.

Under the direction of Coach Bill Kilby, the 1971 golf team strived to better the records of past teams. A competitive spirit prevailed throughout every game as the duffers exhibited great progress in their showing as a team. The highlight of the season was a $14\frac{1}{2}$ - $3\frac{1}{2}$ win over the Magicians of Jefferson. The team's effort and good sportsmanship were revealed throughout the season, and with all players returning, the Eagle golfers anticipated a better season in '72.

Sweat, strain, strength, and endurance marked the beginning of the wrestling season as the Eagles overcame Jefferson in their first match. Few fans and little publicity were obvious, but the Eagles gallantly wrestled on to a successful — if not highly victorious — season.

Coach Goodwin and his team sent an eager first string to the district meet at Jefferson High School. As the Eagle team placed fifth in the district, Thomas Smith placed first in the 185 pound class and Bays Wolfe, Dewey Beckner, Doug Dudley and Jack Altice received metals and the honor of competing in the regional meet. Furthermore, in a region of twenty teams, the FCHS wrestlers were ninth with Thomas Smith third in his class. Going to the state meet in Fairfax, Thomas characterized the determination, pride, and spirit of an outstanding Eagle team.

Facing Tough Schedule, Eagle Glovemen

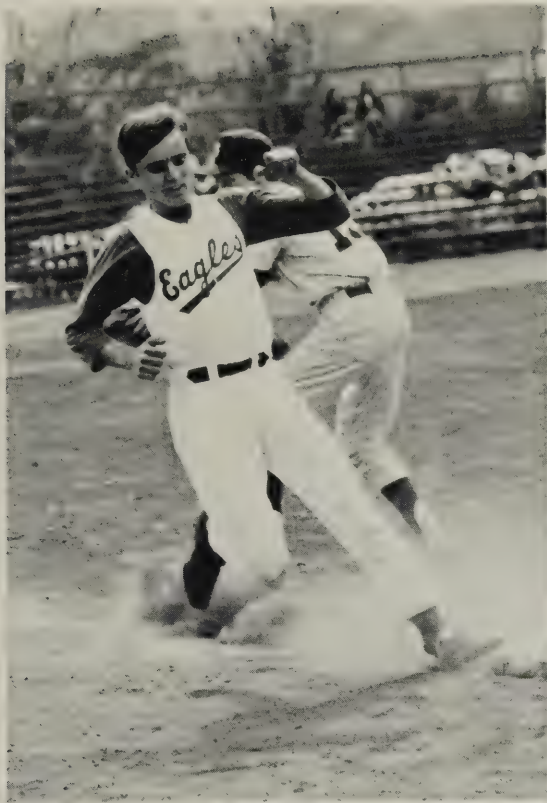

On the diamond, the 1971 Eagle glovemen proved to be another victorious team at FCHS. With the help and direction of Coach Jimmy Thompson, the baseball team had an 8-6 record after defeating Andrew Lewis, Patrick Henry, Robert E. Lee, William Fleming, and Jefferson.

With the leadership and encouragement of co-captains Paul Mattox and Fred Doyle, every man on the team endeavored to make the team successful. Some of the individuals who were outstanding were Fred Doyle, best hitter; Tony Hurt, best hustler; Donnie Scott, most improved; and Paul Mattox, best all around. All in all, the Eagle glovemen had a successful season in scores and experiences.

Eagles On Track Team Capture

With Coach Foutz's and Coach Ligon's leadership and direction, the FCHS track team gained experience and skill as they not only strived for, but also, enjoyed a great deal of success at their meets.

The team started the 1971 season with a win in the Franklin County Relays and continued with wins over Northside, Jefferson, and Bassett. Furthermore, the Eagles captured honors at the District and Regional Meets. At the District Meet, FCHS placed sixth in a fourteen team competition with a total score of 15 points, while four FCHS athletes qualified for the Regional Meet. In addition to qualifying, all four Eagles placed at Regional Track. Kenny Poindexter placed third and William Lemon, fifth, in the overall Regional Meet. Raymond Keys was second in the 100 yd. dash. With his 12'16" pole vault at Regional, Charles Nunley qualified for the State Meet and even broke the school pole vault record with a clearing of 13' ¼".

With the usual true grit and earnest resoluteness of an Eagle, every man on the track team showed his unyielding desire for victory at every meet. Their intentions were a reality for they were victorious not only in scores, but also won in the realm of experience, sportsmanship, and self-control of body and mind.

Raising his arms in a burst of speed, Mike Ferguson completes the 440 relay and brings victory to his team.

Cheerleaders Inspire Enthusiasm In The Eagle Nest

Franklin County High School was fortunate to have truly outstanding varsity cheerleaders. The girls and their sponsor, Miss Ingram, strived continuously to encourage enthusiasm, support, and sportsmanship at the "Home of the Eagles."

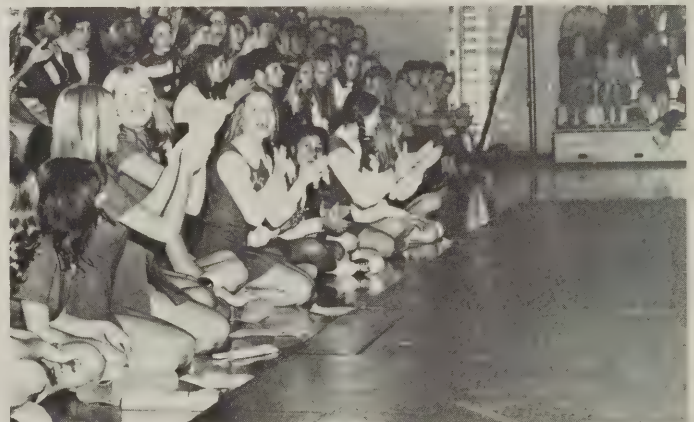

Some of their school activities included cheering at football games, basketball games, pep rallies, and sponsoring sock hops after the games. The cheerleaders also sponsored daily homecoming activities for the week prior to homecoming and topped the event with a superb Homecoming Dance. Highlights of the season included new football sweaters, flowers from the football team for the last game of the season, and a Christmas dinner at Colony House Restaurant.

Co-captains and sponsor of the cheer squad have extra responsibilities. Here Daphne Brown, Miss Ingram, and Serena Whitlow prepare for an exciting basketball game.

Making banners and posters for each game is a time consuming project. Here Susan Blanton, Diane Robertson, and Donna Santrock finish the hanging of a banner.

With boundless enthusiasm and unlimited energy, the junior varsity cheerleaders worked throughout the year to promote school loyalty for the sub-varsity teams of Franklin County High School. Their tireless cheering and ardent support of the players and coaches will long be remembered.

To learn new cheers and to improve their techniques, the cheer squad attended the Roanoke Valley Cheer Camp. The group was rated by the leaders of the camp and won several ribbons for their performances. Diligent practice throughout the summer prepared the cheerleaders for the football and basketball seasons. Much time was spent during the school year preparing unique posters, eye-catching banners, and colorful homecoming activities. The hard working girls also helped to sponsor pep rallies and sock hops.

CONTRIBUTION

As rising members of an adult world, the students of Franklin County High School became aware of the free enterprise system. Young people found that those were the days when many of their needs were fulfilled by the complex commercial society.

Finding that the youth comprised a large percentage of the population, many businesses competed with each other to meet the growing demands of the young buyers. Because commercial enterprise had become so competitive, businessmen tried to make their products more pleasing than those of their competitors.

In order to make wise decisions, the young people spent much time comparing the values of one product against those of another. One means of comparison was made by consulting the advertising section of the school yearbook. The students patronized The Animo advertisers as an expression of their gratitude for the contributions and support given by local merchants. This interest, patronization, and competition of the business world made the yearbook a reality.

In 1882 Edison had a great idea - - and it wasn't the electric light!

The whole idea of investor-ownership of electric light and power companies began when Thomas A. Edison and a group of investors financed his first power plant more than 80 years ago.

Since then, investor-owned companies like ours have become an integral part of America's Free Enterprise system. That explains why today we have at our fingertips more electric power than any other country in the world.

And it's this same Free Enterprise system that puts at your fingertips greater opportunity, greater expectation for success than can be hoped for by any other young people in the world.

Looking Back In Reverie, We Recall Hundreds

Senior Beta Club members receive recognition at the Initiation Banquet which is held annually.

After sharing a locker for three years, Seniors, Alyce Altice and Kathy Wright develop a friendship which will remain long after they graduate.

Students always enjoy the sock hops which are usually held after athletic events at FCHS.

Of Yesterdays

As avid sports fans, these boys take a break from regular classwork to watch one of the World Series Baseball games.

Realizing that the end of school is approaching, Delores Young sadly discards all of her old notebooks which are now useless.

The long-awaited end of school — Seniors reflect upon the past — Juniors think of the present — and Sophomores dream of the future.

1972 . . . THOSE WERE THE DAYS

As the 1972 school year came to a close, seniors reflected upon their memories of talking with friends; attending ball games, sock hops, dances, and plays; and preparing homework, themes, and term papers. Those were the days that marked the conclusion of their high school career. Some of the seniors would carry their knowledge with them to institutions of higher learning while others would immediately enter the business world and put what they had learned to work. No matter what the seniors did, they realized the value of their education.

Juniors planned ahead for their senior year and looked forward to the opportunities their last year at FCHS would bring. With the combined experiences of their junior and sophomore years, the junior class knew that their senior year would be the best of all. Sophomores remembered their first year in high school and anxiously awaited when they could order class rings and attend their first prom.

The entire student body of Franklin County High School recognized the value of their high school training and looked toward the future knowing that their foundation in education would aid them as they faced the opportunities of the coming years.
